Three local snowmobilers narrowly escaped injury when the two machines on which they were riding plunged through the ice behind Haliburton Marine last Saturday evening. County approves '78 budget

County council took only a few minutes last Wednesday to consider and approve a 1978 budget that is $77,085 greater than last year's budget. The total budget approved will see the County spend $677,735 over the next year.

Biggest single increases in the budget are for the completion of the County official plan, and for the Roads department.

The planning study, which should be well underway this year, will be 75 percent financed by the provincial government. The rest of the cost must come from the individual municipalities within the county on the basis of assessment.

Estimated cost of the planning study to the county is $25,000. The 1977 budget showed a $3,000 figure for planning, but none of this was spent. Planning thus represents a $22,000 increase in the total 1978 budget.

The road budget is also up substantially over last year. In 1977, County Council budgeted $310,000 for road work, and actual expenditure figures show that $317,885 were spent. The 1978 budget allows an expenditure of $349,000 by the roads department.

Budget chairman Jerry Howarth, who is also chairman of the Improvement District of Bicroft, said the increase in the roads budget was necessary in order to keep the County within the category that qualifies for an 80 percent subsidy from the provincial government. For years, the maximum allowable amount from the government has not been taken, Howarth said. He told council it was important that expenditures on roads be kept high enough to qualify for the maximum amount of 80 percent subsidized dollars. If this was not done, he said, the County could experience a detrimental effect if the basis of qualification for the subsidies is changed. Howarth also pointed out that in a time of high unemployment such as the County and the country at large is experiencing at present, the expenditure on roads should be kept high. $9,000 spent by the county, when the subsidies are added to it, will bring as much as $100,000 into the economy of the County, Howarth said in the notes that accompanied the budget.

Another significant increase was seen in the amount set aside for use by the Children's Aid Society. In last year's budget, $3,729 were allotted for assistance to children by the C.A.S. In the 1978 budget, this figure jumped to $9,000. The Children's Aid Society had requested some $9,732 from the County for 1978. Howarth said the large increase was the result of a transfer of responsibilities to the Children's Aid Society which had previously been handled by the province.

Other features of the 1978 budget are:

Grants under the heading of Recreation and Recreation services have been increased from a total of $4,500 budgeted in 1977 to $7,500 for 1978. The $3,000 increase will be taken up by a grant to the Haliburton County Pioneer Museum which is scheduled to be built this spring.

$1,000 will be allowed for the payment of wolf bounties.

The total revenue to be raised through taxation levies is $587,747 up from the $534,216 that were called for last year.

The budget was approved as presented, with few questions coming from council members.

Apportionments were the only area which brought strong comment from at least three council members, Dyson, Reeve Murray Fearrey, Anson Hinden and Minden Reeve Reg Booth, and Stanhope Reeve Sinclair Nesbitt.

Booth noted that while the apportionments were calculated according to provincial regulations, the Township wished to register its disagreement in principle with the apportionments.

Reeve Fearrey said the apportionment was not acceptable to the municipality of Dyson et al, because of the outdated provincial factors and assessment which must be used for the calculations.

Sinclair Nesbitt voted against approving the apportionments as presented.

In other matters, council decided to request that the Chamber of Commerce compile statistics on the ratio of employed to unemployed in the county. The figures will be used in the County's efforts to get further consideration from the government on the matter of making the county eligible for funds from the Department of Regional Economic Expansion (DREE).

Council strongly concurred with a resolution from the Haliburton Kawartha Pine Ridge District Health Unit asking that legislation be revised to permit Home Care programs to purchase medical supplies and dressings from local hospitals tax free. At the moment, council was told, these supplies must be purchased from salesmen, and the costs are far higher than if they were bought from the hospitals.

Council also concurred with a resolution suggested by Dyson, Reeve Murray Fearrey calling on the government to initiate a $2 user fee for OHIP.

A bylaw was passed raising the salary of County clerk treasurer Winifred Lahay by six percent to $13,300 per year. She will also be allowed $500 for expenses.

County isn't happy with letter from MTC

Haliburton County Council still isn't satisfied with the response they're getting from the Ministry of Transportation and Communications on the problems at the intersection of highways 35 and 121.

At the February meeting of council, S. McCombie and D.A. White from the Ministry came to council to discuss the work being done at the corner. Council was concerned about a number of complaints that had been received from truck drivers who had experienced difficulty climbing the hill on 121 after turning off of highway 35. Council asked the MTC representatives to consider lowering the grade at the top of the hill before the final paving coat is put on the road this spring. A number of councilors spoke about the complaints which had been received, and about the sharpness of the off ramp from highway 35 that makes it impossible for a car or truck to build up much speed before starting up the hill on highway 121.

Following the questions of council, the MTC men assured the meeting that the situation would be looked at. At the March meeting of County Council last Wednesday, a letter from the MTC informed council that the grade on 121 would not be reduced before the final surface is put on the road.

Council passed a resolution stating that it could not concur with the findings of the MTC men, and will once again petition the Ministry to reduce the grade before repaving the road.

Snowmobile hits bump, man dies

A 31 year old Princeton man died in hospital in Toronto, Monday as a result of a snowmobile accident lated Saturday afternoon. Dead is Kenneth Kelley.

County tables brief on tax reform

Haliburton County council thinks property tax reforms should not apply in blanket form across the whole province, but should differ slightly according to particular needs in various areas of the province. Specifically, council thinks a climatic and economically based zone should be established, of which Haliburton County would be a part, which would stretch from Goderich to Belleville, north to Pembroke and North Bay, west to the middle of Lake Superior, and south to Sault Ste. Marie and Goderich. Such a zone would allow the government to consider economic and geographic factors in applying tax policy, council believes.

The conclusion is one of the main points in a report on tax reform tabled at last week's meeting of County council. The report, compiled by Glen Hodgson and council's finance committee, is a response to the tax reforms proposed in the white paper tabled January 4 in the provincial legislature by Treasurer Darcy Mc

Keough.

That tax reform proposal is based on the concept of Market Value Assessment (MVA) which would see taxation based on 50 percent of the market value of a property. Since it was presented January 4, the McKeough white paper has drawn a great deal of comment from various groups across the province, of which the Haliburton County report is one.

In the preface to the 45 page report, the county notes that the committee which drafted the McKeough white paper had a great deal of difficulty devising a tax model and reforms which would be acceptable to Metro Toronto, Haliburton County and Grattan Township. This would "lead to a belief that the three municipal units mentioned could be the extremes of problem areas within the province in tax reform as devised in the proposal" the county brief notes.

The McKeough white paper proposes a tax policy which would have several benefits, the county feels. Among them are a recognition of the need for tax relief to both the forest industry and agriculture. A recognition that crown lands should be assessed and pay taxes, and a recognition that cottages are residences and should also be assessed at 50 percent of market value for tax purposes.

But while council notes these positive points in the brief, it also feels that further study should be given to tax reforms because of their impact in a number of areas.

The county brief notes that any significant rise in taxes could have a detrimental effect on real estate sales. Recreation land is generally lakefront property, and often a large block of land is thrown in by the developer because the land that lies behind the lakefront property is largely worthless for development, the brief says. It also says that carrying costs are a significant consideration for most cottage and home purchasers, and that these would increase with property tax increases. Such increase could cause real estate sales to fall off, the brief notes.

The McKeough white paper advocated taxing lodges, clubs and associations which are currently taxable, at a rate based on 100 percent of market value. The Haliburton County brief says this rate should be cut in half, to 50 percent of market value, the same as for residences.

For managed forests of over 25 acres, the McKeough white paper proposes taxation at 100 percent of market value, with the money coming from the government in the form of a grant in lieu of taxes. Haliburton county council thinks the qualification for exemption should be reduced to 5 acres, and that the owner of the land should pay 10 percent of the tax, with the remaining 90 percent coming from the province.

Snowmobiles sink in lake

by Bill Davis

Three local snowmobilers took an unexpected icy plunge into the cold waters behind

Haliburton Marine last Saturday evening.

Carm Combes, his wife Joanne, and Nadina Bull, all of Haliburton hit an ice flow while on a skidoo trip with their friends. According to witnesses two machines had travelled over the area and the remaining three machines were about to proceed over the area when the Combes and Bull machines plunged through the ice. The drivers of the machines in front realizing something was wrong, decided to wait for the remaining machines and were informed by Gord Bennett that two machines had taken the dive into about five feet of water.

According to Carm Combes there appeared to be an ice flow, probably caused by last week's mild weather and the first two machines passed over the area with no difficulty. Fortunately, other than a sudden decreasing in body temperatures, no injuries were reported. The machines were removed from the water Sunday.

County joins fight to save hospital

Haliburton County Council has decided to join the fight to ensure that the Minden hospital remains open. Minden citizens, and the council of the Township of Anson, Hinden and Minden have already come out strongly against the changes in the role of the hospital which are advocated in a report prepared for the Ontario Red Cross Hospital Board.

At the March meeting of County Council last Wednesday, a resolution was passed to the Honourable Denis Timbrell, Minister of Health for Ontario. The letter requests further consideration about the need for a continuation of hospital service in Minden. Council notes that the Minden hospital serves the needs of the west half of Haliburton County and serves the municipalities of Stanhope, Lutterworth, Snodden, Glamorgan and Sherborne, McIntosh and Livingstone as well as the Minden area.

Copies of the letter will also be sent to Victoria Haliburton MP Bill Scott, and to MPP John Eakins.

Youths smash Minden juvenile bus windows

A local Travelways school bus carrying the Minden juveniles home from Havelock, had two windows broken while on a stop at the MacDonalds restaurant on Lansdowne street in Peterborough. The incident occurred late Saturday night.

According to witnesses, four Peterborough area youth became involved in an argument with some of the players and spectators on the bus. As a result, one of the Peterborough youths smashed his fist through two of the side windows of the bus. After breaking the windows the

Brian Good named Eganville's Citizen of the Year

A former Haliburton man was named Eganville's citizen of the year recently. Dr. Brian Good, son of Dr. Harry Good and Ruth Good, of Haliburton, was presented with a trophy symbolic of the citizen of the year honour by the Eganville Boy Scouts.

Dr. Brian Good has been very active in the Boy Scout movement in Eganville for a number of years. He is also vice president of the Eganville Rotary Club, and was a member of the fund raising committee which worked to finance the new arena recently opened in Eganville. Dr. Good also referees minor hockey, and is active in other community organizations.

He was presented with the trophy at an awards ceremony for Cubs and Scouts February 19.

Haliburton company buys Peterborough paper

Algonquin Graphics Limited, the company which owns and operates the Haliburton County Echo, has purchased a majority interest in The New Peterborough Review, Algonquin Graphics president John Zylstra said Monday.

The Review, established in 1853, is the oldest newspaper in Peterborough. A weekly using both broadsheet (or full size) format and tabloid sections, the Review has a controlled circulation of 23,500 copies per week, making it one of the largest weekly newspapers in Ontario outside of the Metropolitan Toronto area.

The Review has a long tradition of community news coverage in Peterborough. In 1878, after 25 years as a weekly, the Peterborough Review became a daily newspaper, and continued to publish a weekly paper as well. It was the first daily newspaper in the midland district, and continued to operate as a daily for a number of years. In 1934, it returned to weekly publication. The takeover by Algonquin Graphics will "lend a management and editorial style to the Review that has won awards for the Haliburton County Echo," company president John Zylstra said.

Brett Zufelt, who has been business manager of the Echo since November, will become business manager of the Peterborough Review.

Echo publisher Zylstra will continue to direct Algonquin Graphics Limited from his Haliburton office.

This was the scene much of last Sunday night in junior "D" action in Lakefield. Both teams squared off on several occasions and the game got out of hand. A total of 115 minutes in penalties were recorded.

When Easter dawns this March 26th, it will remind us once more that man is not alone in the universe. Death has been conquered. Hope abounds with life's renewal for "He is risen indeed." In celebration and tribute, many Christian homes and churches will radiate the fragrance of Easter lilies. Children will scramble for chocolate rabbits and candy eggs in all sizes. For us the symbols of Easter are only a credit card away.

It was not always so. In isolated farm houses, in cabins clustered about some mill or trading centre in the rugged, forested highlands of Central and Northern Ontario, pioneers were hard put to find the trappings to express their joy at earth's awakening.

It was the practical, mundane, but economically important item, the hen's egg, in pioneer days scarce in winter, which became the symbol of Easter for the pioneer.

No matter how well built or warmly insulated their hen house, few flocks produced many eggs through the coldest months. It took lengthening days and smiling sun to awaken maternal tendencies, reddened combs and stimulate the excited cluck fests culminating in eggs. When the hens began to lay old timers knew that their release from the tyranny of long woolen underwear could not be far behind and rejoiced accordingly.

A first-hand account of the role hens played in the life of a child growing up in Haliburton County before the turn of the century comes from the account of her life compiled by the late Maude Anderson Finlay, 12 years before her death in 1974 in her ninety-fourth year. Independent, ambitious, a lover of life and people, Mrs. Finlay was typical of the early builders of the Provisional County of Haliburton.

Her father, John Anderson, keeper of the General Store and Post Office at Tory Hill (named in exasperation by a Liberal Candidate and County Surveyor Alex Niven when he poled only one vote), was also Clerk of Monmouth Township and Crown Lands Agent as well as running a farm on the outskirts of the village where the family boarded the judges and the lawyers when court was held in the district.

Mrs. Finlay writes thus: "Gathering eggs for mother was one of my tasks and I was always called on if mother needed more while she was baking. In the hen house one of the birds refused to let me see if there were any eggs under her. When I seized this recalcitrant matron to pull her from the nest, she set up such a squawking that the rooster, a great fellow who took paternal responsibilities seriously, flew at me and knocked me to the floor where he pecked at my face. Fortunately he did not strike my eyes. There were farm children who lost their sight during such an attack. I didn't linger to look for more eggs but bolted to the house at top speed glad to escape more or less in one piece. Mother got her own eggs that day.

"In my childhood the river drivers who steered the logs down our river appeared as regularly as the ice left the lakes. Each spring saw them camped in our field not far from the house. Their clerk used to come up to buy fresh eggs from us and when I was about 8 or 9 years old Dad said I could keep the money from all the eggs I could sell. This was my first big business venture and I felt positively rich each time I collected ten cents a dozen for my merchandise.

"The approach of Easter meant it was time to play our 'egg game' with mother. Whoever gathered them was expected to hide nearly all the eggs in the barn until the day before Easter when we would surprise her with eggs in abundance. Some families went to great lengths to colour their eggs and decorate them until they became works of art. Most simply ate them in their natural state.

Sometimes there were family contests to see who could eat the most at one sitting. A grossly overweight lady we knew bragged of eating a dozen. It made me feel a bit green just to think of it."

After her marriage to James Edmund Finlay, who served as Magistrate of Haliburton County for many years, Maude and her husband took over the Tory Hill General Store and Post Office as well as running a farm and a saw and shingle mill. Of those days she writes: "Another project of mine was the raising of my own chickens with the help of an ancient incubator heated with kerosene. It demanded close watching so I had to get up every night to check that the temperature was constant. If everything went well I hatched as many as 75 chicks and thankfully turned them over to an ambitious setting hen more suited than I to the task of raising them."

Of course the approach of Easter was also the signal for the end of winter logging and the break up of the shanty crews, either to wait for open water and the spring drive, or, in the case of most farmers, to return to tasks which must be completed before May planting. Accumulated wages meant money for new clothes which made merchants smile as broadly as the ladies who wore their finery proudly to church on Easter morning.

In most logging areas the influx of men, absent from their families since Christmas, made it a time for social gatherings and celebrations. Across the County from Tory Hill, at Carnarvon in Stanhope Township, these get-togethers combined fun with practical matters. The community assembled for "wood bees" at various homes followed by dances.

Hardwood "drags" that is logs cut into lengths of from 8 to 16 feet, were cut from bush lots and skidded to the wood shed by the host's team. On the appointed day, men and older boys congregated to cut the logs into blocks of from 16 to 24 inches. These were split and piled in the wood shed, next winter's fuel.

Adding spice to the affair was the rivalry of various crews of young men sawing the blocks. Some, to make time, would break off the last inch rather than sawing it through. This left a ragged protrusion for the axemen, usually older men, to knock off before the block could be split. When this happened it was fortunate the ladies were preparing food in the house for the language would have shocked them.

A day's work saw 20 cords safely piled in the shed by 3 p.m. leaving the young people free to change to "Sunday best" for the evening dance.

When the bee was held at the Robert Moore farm, "Uncle Bill" Moore's famous violin, accompanied by piano or organ, lured dancers onto the floor for square dances and between the sets made lively music for the sprightly step dancers to display their talents. The evening ended with a taffy pull when the maple syrup, bubbling on the stove, reached the right consistency for handling. At parties held in the sugar bush itself, the boiled syrup was poured directly on the snow and eaten as soon as it hardened.

Haliburton pioneers may have lacked Easter lilies, access to endless racks of spring clothes in a shopping mall or the ranks of chocolate rabbits and eggs which fill the candy department and overflow into the aisles, but the voices that sang "Christ the Lord is Risen Today" rang with conviction. The eggs that made up the main course at Sunday dinner were eaten with sincere thankfulness that "The winter is past, the rain is over and gone; the flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing has come, and the voice of the turtle dove is heard in our land."

Car leaves road, Minden man charged

A Minden area man was charged with careless driving and with failing to remain at the scene of an accident following a single car crash south of Dorset Thursday.

Minden OPP report that a 1971 station wagon driven by Willis McNeilly, 45, was northbound on highway 35 south of Dorset at about 7 p.m. Thursday when it failed to negotiate a curve. The car entered the ditch on the east side of the road and rolled over.

Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $2,700. In a separate incident, a gasoline pump was knocked over by a station wagon last Wednesday, resulting in $500 damage to the gas pump.

Minden OPP say a car driven by Caro Mintz, 39, of Iroquois was southbound on a private parking lot at the Iroquois Steak House when it slid on the icy surface of the lot and struck the gas pump. There was no damage to the vehicle.

Davis and Kent detained the four youths to await police assistance, and at this point were assisted by the occupants of the bus.

Charged with willful damage and breach of probation is 19 year old Michael Riddolls of 703 Little Street, Peterborough.

Riddolls was held in custody and was scheduled to appear in Peterborough court on March 20.

Toronto public school children question story

Mr. Editor

Room 21 of Huron Street School did a big unit on the wolf and we read your article in the Haliburton Echo. I disagree on this: In your article you said that you believe a wolf killed the deer. Well when wolves kill and Well when wolves kill any prey like deer they eat all of it and if there is any left over they bury it in the snow. I did a little extra work on the wolves prey and I've read that in many books!

Your friend
Lou-Lynne
Shelnutt
Age 10
Toronto, Ontario

Mr. Editor

I read your article about the wolf population increasing. I disagree with it. Just one wolf couldn't have dragged a deer to 3 different places. Also if some wolves have dragged one deer and left it half demolished that would be very unusual because wolves don't kill just for fun. I've been researching wolves and they just wouldn't have left that deer half eaten. They would have eaten the whole deer, or buried the part left over.

Marcelo Calero
Age 10

Mr. Editor:

Our teacher read us an article in your paper (the Haliburton Echo). There was a short part in this article that I think isn't true about the wolf. The article explained that a lone wolf was seen at a deer carcass (half eaten). Our class is studying the wolf and not usually is a wolf found alone because a wolf is a social animal and travels in a pack. Also a wolf would eat all of its kill. The man that thought he saw the lone wolf has no proof that the wolf killed the animal.

Joanne Maher

Mr. Editor:

Just today our teacher read us an article from the March 1, Haliburton Echo. This article was on wolf populations rising and deer killings. You say that wolves drove a poor helpless deer onto a frozen lake, and later a lone wolf was by the half a carcass. We studied wolves, and wolves don't leave carcasses lying around - they either bury them or eat them. The lone wolf could just have been investigating the kill too. And also there are many more deer than wolves, so what are you worrying about? Anyway, I hope this changes your opinion.

Sincerely yours,
Andrew Toth

Mr. Editor:

Our class read a recent article (March 1st paper) about the wolf population in Haliburton. In this article it said you found a half devoured deer carcass. You said that this deer had been killed by wolves. Did you find any proof that you did not state in this article like hair, paw marks or teeth marks? This killing could easily have been done by dogs. Since the animal that killed the deer left the forequarters of the deer it is probable that a wolf did not kill the deer since wolves eat all of what they kill. Your article proves nothing except that a deer was killed. The killing would have been done by dogs. Would you please write a future article when you have more facts. I would be interested. A lone wolf cannot just kill a deer and a pack eats all it kills.

Yours Respectfully
Rachel Morey
Grade 5

Dear Mr. Editor:

This morning our teacher was reading us an article from your newspaper. It claimed the wolf population was rising abundantly. However, in that same article it was written that someone had sighted a deer carcass that was only half eaten. It attracted my attention because if it appears the wolf population is on the rise, why would they leave half a carcass? Can you answer that?

Faithfully awaiting your reply,
Peter Atto

Mr. Editor:

On Wed. January 4, We read in the newspaper Haliburton Echo that 3 men fought off a timber wolf. I think it's true about the wolf. But the other article of March 1 don't agree with. A wolf would not kill a deer by itself or leave the carcass without eating it all.

Ricky Galrey

Mr. Editor:

Our teacher (at school) read an article from the Haliburton Echo paper about wolves killing deer. We have been studying social animals like the wolf and we found that he wolves kill the weakest ones in the herd of their prey. Please put more information in your paper about how you know it was wolves, and the persons name that saw the kill. If you do put these answers in your paper this would help us alot.

Billy Joe

Mr. Editor:

In a recent copy of your newspaper (March 1st) to be exact, there was an article which my class has been questioning. It said that the wolf population in Haliburton County has been increasing and that one witness claimed to have seen a lone wolf leaving the carcass of a small deer. After further investigation you found a quarter of the carcass eaten. This does not necessarily mean a wolf killed the deer, especially a lone wolf which does not chase animals (for that long). And if the wolf population is increasing wouldn't more of the deer be eaten? Also we have been doing a wolf project and all the books say that a wolf buries what it does not eat so it won't go bad. Perhaps another creature killed the deer? If you would like to conduct experiments on the rising wolf population, check the deer. It is well known that all wolves kill the weakest and sickest deer, therefore allowing the strongest to reproduce strong offspring. If the deer seem strong and healthy the wolf population might have increased.

Yours respectfully,
Tinni Banney

Dear Editor:

The grade 5 pupils in room 21 recently did research on the wolf. We read your article on the killing of the deer and that you think the wolves were responsible for it. Here are some facts to show you that maybe something else killed it. 2. Wolves bury their carcasses when they can't finish it. 2. Wolves only kill when they are hungry and they eat up most of it. So why is 3/4 of the deer not eaten?

More pupils from R.21 are writing reasons why it isn't possible for the wolf to have killed the deer.

Yours respectfully,
Sammy Lum

Mr. Editor

We read your article about the wolf population increasing. I'd like to know if you have any proof that it was a wolf that killed the deer. Wolves never leave their prey as shown in the newspaper picture. The wolf would bury the carcass or eat it all. Did you see any wolf tracks?

Waiting your reply
Jasneena Dhillon

Dear Editor:

In your newspaper the Haliburton Echo there was a short story about the wolf with a picture of a half eaten deer. Well maybe not quite half eaten but started at least. In the story it said that someone saw a lone wolf at eight in the morning. They said that the population of the wolf has gone up. Just because someone saw one wolf is not enough proof that the population has gone up. It is also not enough reason for the 25 dollar bounty to be put on the wolves.

Gillian

Dear Editor:

Read us a newspaper article from your newspaper saying that a herd of wolves dragged a deer onto the ice and killed it. Later someone saw a lone wolf eating the carcass. Our class did a recent study of the wolf and wolves would not leave anything they would either bury it or finish it off. Please explain.

Yours truly,
Nita Sheffit

Editor's note: The following is an open letter from the editor to the students in the Grade 5 class at Huron Street School in Toronto. The students wrote letters to the editor, reproduced elsewhere on this page, in which they questioned the truth of an article that appeared in the Echo, March 1. The story in question described a deer kill on a small lake near Wilberforce, which was reported to have been the work of a wolf or wolves. The questions the students ask in their letters to the editor refer specifically to the article, but beyond that, they hint at broader questions about the relationship between wolves, deer, and other wild animals, about attitudes toward wolves and other predators, and about conservation. These questions are addressed in the letter below.

To the Grade 5 students at Huron Street School:

I am very pleased that so many of you took the time to write to me about something that you feel is very important. I can assure you that I think the questions you have asked are very important too, and that's why I decided to reply to your letters through this open letter. It will let others who read the newspaper know of your concerns, and may help you, and them, to understand a little more about wolves, deer, and the way people trained in wildlife management go about looking after these animals here in Haliburton County, and in other, surrounding areas.

Your questions referred to a story and a picture that appeared on the front page of the Echo three weeks ago. The picture showed a half eaten deer and the story below it said the deer had been killed by a wolf or wolves. The story was not intended either to approve or disapprove of the incident, but only to report that it happened. How do we know the deer was killed by wolves and not by dogs, as sometimes happens here? Not long after the dead deer was discovered someone driving along the road nearby, a number of men from the Minden office of the Ministry of Natural Resources drove to the scene. One of those men was Gary Lee, an expert in tracking and trapping wild animals. Mr. Lee is employed by the Ministry to advise men who make all or part of their living by trapping, and he also helps farmers, whose animals are killed by predators. From the tracks on the hard snow around the deer carcass, Mr. Lee was able to tell that three wolves had driven the deer onto the ice and killed it.

Why was the carcass only half eaten? There are at least two possible explanations. The wolves may have been scared away from the kill by the presence of people nearby. They may have simply left the kill for a short time, intending to return, but were unable to do so, because of the arrival of the men from the Ministry of Natural Resources. The behaviour you describe in your letters, that of a wolf devouring its kill entirely, or burying what it doesn't eat, is characteristic of the timber wolf (Canis Lupus) in its pure, wild state. And it is the timber wolf that most people think of when they think of wolves. The timber wolf has been studied by biologists and naturalists, and many books have been written about it. But timber wolves are almost never seen in Haliburton County, partly because they avoid people, but also because their natural habitat is generally farther north. The wolves that are more common here are smaller than the timber wolf, and are called brush wolves. Unlike the pure timber wolf, the brush wolves have not been studied very much, and details about their behavior are sketchy. In this area, the brush wolf can vary greatly, both in appearance and behavior. The main reason for this is the presence of domestic dogs throughout the area. These dogs sometimes breed with the brush wolves, and occasionally with timber wolves, according to the Ministry of Natural Resources, and the resulting animal may look like a wolf, but it will often behave differently. Such animals are generally less afraid of humans than are pure wolves, and may be seen more often around cottages and villages.

They forget that man is himself an animal, that he is both a part of nature and a creature which, because of a highly developed brain, stands apart from nature.

On the other hand there are people, always concerned and well meaning, who think that all wildlife ought to be left alone, that nature has a means of keeping itself in balance if we don't interfere. And of course, it is true that nature can usually look after itself if man is far away.

But there are very few places left on earth, where man is far enough away to have had no effect on the environment, and on the wildlife that live in it. Even if people don't build houses and roads, in remote areas, their presence can be felt and measured in subtle ways. Airplanes cross the sky, leaving their exhaust in the high atmosphere. Pollution from cities drifts on the wind and settles around the globe. There is no escape for animals from the presence of human beings on this earth. That is a fact we have to live with.

In a place like Haliburton County, where there are hundreds of miles of paved roads, thousands of cars, and cottages on every lake, nature has been greatly altered by humans, even if that alteration is unintentional.

We cannot change things to let nature go back to its unspoiled state, where wolves and deer would keep in balance with their environment, and with all the other animals that live in it. The best we can hope for is that men and women who have been trained to look after our wildlife can help animals survive despite the presence of civilization. And that is what the people who work for the Ministry of Natural Resources do.

Steve Toole, fish and wildlife supervisor for the Ministry's Minden office, is charged with the responsibility of seeing that the wolf and deer population stay in balance. "We are definitely committed to preserving the wolf species," Mr. Toole says. "The really touchy area as far as we're concerned is in relation to deer. At this moment we have a very low deer population. But there are some slight signs of recovery. We want to do everything we can to encourage this recovery. Therefore, we look at specific herds of deer in winter time in the deer yards (areas where the deer congregate to find food and shelter). When they are in these areas, they can be very vulnerable to predation". If a pack of wolves comes into a deer yard and kills a number of deer, the Ministry will attempt to track and trap those wolves. "We feel that when deer numbers are low it is necessary for us to relieve this form of stress (predation)" Mr. Toole says. "If we had a high deer population, we would accept the effect of predation as natural".

The problem of wildlife management, particularly where deer and wolves are concerned, is complex in this part of Ontario, "because we have created a situation which is artificial" Mr. Toole points out. "There probably were no white tailed deer north of the Kewartha Lakes prior to the coming of the whiteman". Archeologists have been unable to find deer bones at Indian campsites that date back before the 1700's. Why did the deer come with the whiteman? Before logging operations began, central Ontario was covered with thick softwood forests, mostly pine. But the logging changed the forests to a mixed hardwood and softwood type that remains today. It left clear space where small plants and shrubs on which the deer thrive, could grow. And the Chris is one of over 60,000 young people who'll be working for you this summer.

She'll be working in a Ministry of the Environment lab. Her job is provided through one of eight programs developed to give work experience to high school and post-secondary students as well as to young people who have finished their education. Here's how the programs work:

Ontario Youth Employment Program provides a subsidy of $1.25 per hour to encourage additional summer youth employment by the business and farming communities. This program is operated by the Ministry of the Treasury, Subsidies Branch.

Ontario Career Action Program is a year-round program which gives career training and practical work experience to unemployed young people for up to a 26-week period. Participants are placed as trainees in the private sector and with various Ontario Government ministries. This program is administered by the Ministry of Colleges and Universities.

Experience '78 hires young people to work for the summer in various Ontario ministries. The jobs are designed to complement the student's academic and career goals. It's co-ordinated by the Ontario Youth Secretariat.

1978 Ontario-Quebec Summer Student Job Exchange Program places Ontario students in various Quebec Government ministries and agencies while Quebec students are placed with Ontario Government ministries and agencies. The program gives students the opportunity of increasing their knowledge of a second language and of experiencing the culture of the host province. It's operated through the Civil Service Commission.

Junior Forest Ranger Program gives Ontario students who are 17 years old a chance to gain practical experience in the management of our natural resources. It's administered by the Ministry of Natural Resources.

Junior Conservationist Award Program hires students nominated through conservation-minded organizations to work in resource management. It's operated by the Ministry of Natural Resources, Conservation Authorities Branch.

Junior Agriculturalist Farm Program employs students who reside in the city to live and work on farms during the summer. It's administered by the Ministry of Agriculture and Food.

Youth Care for Senior Citizens gives municipalities the opportunity to hire young people to provide at-home services for elderly and handicapped adults. This program is co-ordinated by the Ministry of Community and Social Services.

The young people who work under these programs and those who will work as summer replacements for regular ministry staff will benefit from their experiences. All of us in Ontario will benefit from the work they do.

CANADA PENSION PLAN CHANGES.

Better Benefits For Some.

Divorce or Annulment.

CPP pension credits earned by a husband and wife during marriage may be divided equally between them if the marriage ends in divorce or annulment after January 1, 1978. This ensures that an asset accumulated through the efforts of both spouses while they were married can be shared equally by both when the marriage is dissolved.

Retroactive Payment of Retirement Benefits.

Retirement benefits may now be paid retroactively for a period of up to 12 months to contributors who had attained age 65 but who are under age 70 and who have retired from the labour force.

Post-Mortem Benefits.

Applications for retroactive benefits (i.e. up to 12 months) can now be made on behalf of a deceased person, in cases where a contributor qualified, but failed to apply, before death. Families or estates will be entitled to receive benefits in such cases.

Elimination of Reductions in Children's Benefits.

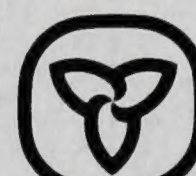

Orphans' and disabled contributors' children's benefits are no longer reduced for the fifth and subsequent children. All children in a family, regardless of its size, are eligible to receive equal benefits.

These important amendments to the Canada Pension Plan came into force on January 1st, 1978. If you have any questions, contact the Canada Pension Plan office nearest you:

User fee a sound idea

The announcement by provincial treasurer Darcy McKeough that OHIP fees would be increasing has been greeted by opposition from many quarters.

In response to McKeough's announcement, Dysart Reeve Murray Fearrey proposed a resolution calling for the government to implement a two dollar user fee. The reeve suggested that each time a person visits the doctor, he or she should have to pay two dollars out of pocket. The rest of the cost would be borne by the OHIP scheme. Dysart council was quick to endorse the resolution, and last week Haliburton County Council also gave its approval to the user fee proposal. The government would do well to heed the suggestion.

Under the new fee schedule announced by McKeough, a single person will see costs of OHIP rise from $16 to $22 per month, and family coverage will rise from its previous $32 to $44 per month. That means that many people will be paying more for medical coverage than they pay for municipal property tax.

There is no doubt that we in Ontario enjoy one of the finest health care systems in the world. But there is also no doubt that the system is much abused. Doctors' offices are full of people whose complaint is hardly more serious than a hang nail, and when they waste a doctor's time, we all pay the price.

McKeough suggested that the increase in fees would act as a deterrent to such abuse. It's more likely that people will use the system even more in an attempt to get there money's worth.

A user fee would be a hardship for a small number of people, such as those on fixed incomes and others who for valid reasons, need frequent medical attention. Perhaps some provision could be made for exemptions from the fee for those who truly cannot afford it.

The rest of us however, might think twice about running to the doctor if we had to shell out $2 each time. A user fee could be the answer to rising OHIP costs.

A step for the better

The meeting two weeks ago which was called to discuss the possibility of starting a downtown redevelopment project in Haliburton was an encouraging sign for all Haliburton and area residents. More than 40 interested main street business people and others turned up to hear a presentation from Earl Miller, an official with the Ontario Ministry of Housing.

Miller told the group that the best way to get such a project going was for all merchants to sit down and work together. Without agreement, he pointed out, there could be no improvements, because the cost of those improvements must be borne by the individual merchants.

What was most encouraging was that as a result of the meeting, a committee was formed to continue to look into the matter. That committee is expected to come up with a concrete proposal which can be taken to Dysart council, and to the rest of the merchants on main street.

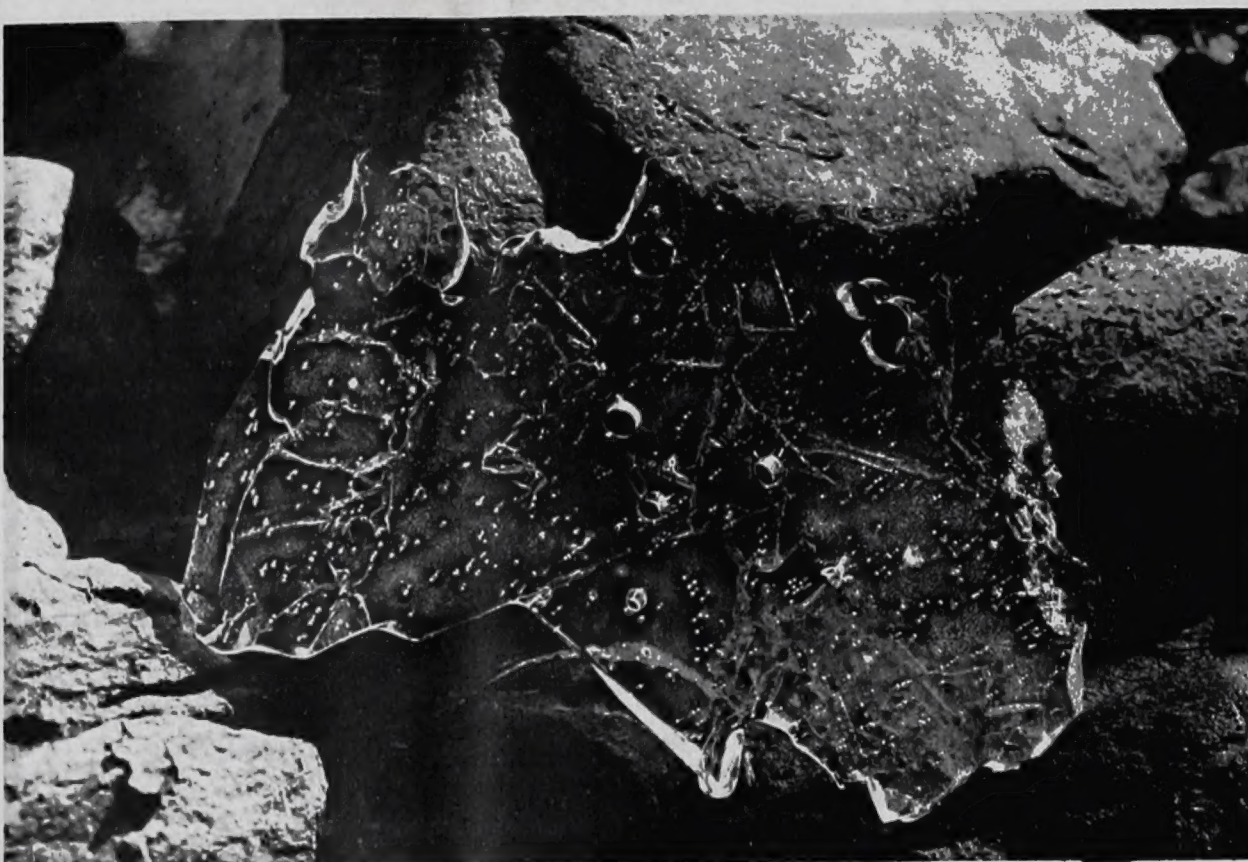

The work of this committee could have at least two possible benefits for the village of Haliburton, and for the surrounding area. The first benefit can come from the cooperation itself. Little can ever be accomplished if merchants pursue their own direction on an individual basis. By forming a committee and working to reach a consensus, a spirit of cooperation is started which could have spin off benefits for other community projects.

The other important point about the committee is that if the project proceeds beyond the first, tentative steps taken at the recent meeting, Haliburton village will be a better place in a few months.

There aren't many people who would deny that the main street could use a facelift. It probably won't be possible for any elaborate schemes to be undertaken, such as making a uniform style for the street through false fronts. But a few benches, some trees in planters a little paint here and there and better sidewalks could go a long way toward making Haliburton a better place.

The merchants at that meeting are to be congratulated for taking the first step.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I would like to reply to the problems raised in last week's issue concerning censorship of movies, in particular to the movies shown in our local theatre on Sundays. According to the Echo, in spite of all other considerations the owner of the theatre admits that the type of movie shown on Sundays is "garbage" and that he "hates looking at them". As an "occasional" resident of Haliburton he is indeed fortunate. We are familiar with the usual barrage of the economical aspects of giving the public the filth and violence they crave, and the legal aspects of - "it's not up to me it's up to the censors". But we are the censors of our community, we - the residents, the business people, the parents, the responsible public. As a parent of young children I find it difficult to explain the anachronisms of the immorality of Sunday movies and the need to reinforce the established accepted principals of Christian life.

These Sunday movies and their associated advertising are just one aspect of a trend throughout our Western way of life to undermine and degrade normal standards of living.

All responsible people and community organizations should strongly support the stand by our local Churches and if we as a community do not want this type of abuse to our corporate way of life, then let us speak out now.

Yours faithfully,
John Postlethwaite

To the Editor:

The residents of Ontario have once again demonstrated, in a very tangible way, remarkable concern and understanding for the children of the world.

In the past year Unicef's programs have generated an all time high revenue in Ontario of approximately $892,000 to assist children in the developing areas of the world.

This support has come from Ontario residents at all levels:

- from students who carried the Hallowe'en boxes, engaged in walk-a-thons, starvathons and many other novel fund-raising events.
- from school boards and teachers who are doing an excellent job of teaching "World citizenship" to our children, preparing them to live in the truly "global" village of their future and providing them with an opportunity to care and to share with the children of other lands who share their world.
- from the many parents who encourage the children to participate and who, along with many service clubs, groups, senior citizens and other individuals, assist in distributing boxes, handling funds collected and in selling, purchasing and sending Unicef cards.

Editor's Notebook by Len Pizzev

Editing a newspaper, even a weekly newspaper like the Echo, is demanding work. There is the pressure of deadlines, and the self imposed pressure of trying to craft good stories. But like any job worth doing, editing has its rewards as well, and sometimes those rewards come in subtle ways.

This week, they came in the form of an envelope postmarked Toronto, which was literally stuffed full of letters from a Grade 5 class at Huron Street School in Toronto. The children, it seems had been studying wolves, and their teacher somehow had gotten ahold of a March 1 issue of the Echo, which showed a deer killed by wolves in a front page picture. The children took exception to the picture, and to the story, written by Echo sports reporter Bill Davis, which appeared below it.

When I read the letters, it was clear that the concern these children expressed was genuine. They had learned that wolves always eat what they kill, and that if anything is left for any reason, the wolves bury what remains. They asked me to justify the story, and to explain what they took to be obvious untruths.

I felt they deserved a straight answer, so I headed for the Ministry of Natural Resources office in Minden. I had never thought very much about wolves or deer until then. I don't hunt, and I don't think others should either, but that's an emotional

- from banks, trust companies, vending companies, etc. who assist in handling and remitting funds collected.

- from many good "corporate citizens" who purchase Unicef cards, provide space for volunteers to sell cards, and in many cases, sell the cards themselves.

- from many newspapers, radio stations, television stations and "public figures" who provide excellent free publicity for these endeavors.

All residents of Ontario can therefore take real pride in this remarkable effort.

The funds collected are matched by the Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA), and in most cases this total is matched again in some way by the recipient country (labour, materials, transportation etc.). Thus our Ontario-raised funds go a very long way in supporting Unicef Canada's projects for this year.

Many of these projects relate, in some way, to the provision of clean water. This has become one of the major activities of Unicef. It is a disquieting fact to know that at least half the world's children live without access to assured safe water. Water-borne diseases are, in turn, among the worst killers and cripples of children. Could we, therefore, do better than focus on water as our major interest? No single contribution we could make carries with it such potential for positive change.

To the residents of Ontario who contributed these funds, on behalf of the many volunteers who were working for and counting on your support, and on behalf of Unicef's children who face a brighter future as a result, may we say a most sincere thank you.

Sincerely yours,
Jacqueline Bradshaw,
Provincial Chairman,
Ontario Unicef Committee

To the Editor:

When the time comes for a "face-lift" for Haliburton's main street, how about "turning back the clock"?

Put up false store fronts to make it look like the olden days.

A TV program (Code "R") and Disney World have a street like this and it's beautiful. Each store is painted a different pastel colour.

To me, Haliburton is the perfect town for this and I think it would attract the tourists!

Sincerely

rather than a reasoned response. But at the Ministry office, Steve Toole sat down with me for more than two hours and took me step by step through the Ministry's management program for wildlife, and specifically for wolves and deer.

I soon found out that there are no simple answers to the problem. I also found that the Ministry is committed to preserve both wolves and deer, and to manage them for the future. It was satisfying to know what's being done, and to be able to tell the children in that Grade 5 class what I hadn't know before.

The most satisfying thing was the openness of their letters, and the curiosity which lay behind them. You can read those letters, and my response to them, on page three of this week's Echo.

There aren't many people who take the time to say what they think through letters to the editor, and seldom in the numbers that the Huron Street Grade 5's did. But their letters were thought provoking, and a story was the result. There is always space on the editorial page for Echo readers to have their say, and a letter to the editor may bring that editor as much satisfaction as the ones he received this week did.

If something bugs you in the Echo, let us know. The children at Huron Street School in Toronto certainly did.

Fair Play

By Creighton Feir

From time to time the subject of the violent and sex movies shown in theatres across Canada comes up for criticism and rightly so. One has to wonder if any of these motion pictures are ever censored. This problem is not only in the movie houses, all one has to do is watch television any night of the week and the biggest percentage of programs shown on the tube are nothing but a bunch of junk. One night recently we thought that the CBC had hit rock bottom when they had an hour long programme filmed in Toronto with the title "On a Night Stand". This programme featured an hour of what you might call people right out of their minds, plenty of sex and violence along with a knife wielding maniac. This particular flick involves a fun couple Daisy and Rafe. She is a bank clerk rejected on her birthday by her married lover. She goes to a disco, gets turned on by Rough Trade and Carole Pope and lassoes a Yonge Street cowboy who is the cutest con-man on the block. Back they plod to her pad, one of those antiseptic highrises on St. Clair Ave. and, before you can say Red Riding Hood, he's pulling all kinds of funny stuff. Won't get into bed with her, for heaven's sake, canoodles up to the neighbors, who have a rubbermask ritual going, and finally the entire plot ends in disaster. We are constantly being fed this kind of garbage on private networks and the CBC who we as taxpayers are helping to subsidize. It's just about time that they started to clean up their act. The CBC can't even bring us a mid-week N.H.L. hockey game because they are to pre-occupied with these crazy violent shows. In this day and age we need something to laugh about and we certainly don't need anything else to depress us. What has happened to all the good clean family type comedy shows, and what about putting on some good music for a change.

Inheritance, a musical group representing the Barry Moore Crusades, has recently completed a three month tour of Western Canada and are just now returning from Eastern Canada. All are graduates of Ontario Bible College, Toronto. They will be in concert March 28, 29, 30 in the Haliburton Area. Tuesday, March 28, 7:30 - Harcourt Community Chapel, Harcourt. Wednesday, March 29, 7:30 - Minden Gospel Church, Minden. Thursday, March 30, 7:30 pm - St. George's Anglican Church, Haliburton.

Nathan Petrini, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Petrini of Haliburton, a local boy had opened up his own business here in Haliburton specializing in Vinyl and Aluminum siding. The new business is to be known as Petrini Construction. So many people have been ripped off in the past on aluminum siding by these fly by nighters who are here to-day and gone to-morrow that it's nice to see a local boy getting into the business and if anything goes wrong he will be easy to get in touch with.

You know there are a lot of people who wonder what we do up here during the winter months. Well let me tell you there is plenty of activity to keep everyone busy. The County has added many new sports facilities and there is plenty to do if anyone wants to do it.

You could win a Treasure Chest full of valuable merchandise from participating Haliburton Merchants during Haliburton Second Pirate's Bonanza which will be held on March 29-30-31 and April 1st.

The Wilberforce Maple Syrup Festival is scheduled for Saturday, March 25th with a Maple Syrup Demonstration from 9 am to 3 pm. There will be a sugar bush tour, maple syrup candy available and maple syrup for sale. Also on the menu will be pancakes and sausages (all day - all you can eat). Flea Market, local handcrafts, gifts and white elephant tables, bake sale. Festival Dance in the evening. All activities will be held at the Lloyd W. Watson Memorial Centre and Park. Proceeds to the new arena fund.

The March break is now in progress and many people from the County are either visiting in other parts of Ontario or in the sunny south.

I just received a letter from Hazel and Cliff Inglis who spend the winter months in Lakeland, Florida. They sent me a clipping from the St. Petersburg Times. Dick Bothwell in his column in that paper stated that this winter was just like last winter: one of the coldest on record in Florida, but not the coldest. It was the fifth-coldest since St. Petersburg figures have been kept, beginning in 1914. Last winter was the fourth coldest. So, just as in 1962-64, they have had two back-to-back quite cold winters. Cliff and Hazel pointed out in the letter that the St. Petersburg Independent which is a daily paper hands out a free issue any day the sun does not shine there. They believe it is a total of 265 days since 1910.

Curry Motors Limited at Haliburton are offering a new service. They claim that they just need a number and 60 seconds to cut a car or truck key.

Jim McDonald, president of the Rochester, New York Chapter of the F.G.B.M.F.I. was the guest speaker at the Full Gospel Business Men's Dinner held at Deer Lodge last Saturday evening.

The Township of Stanhope council is considering making application to the Provincial Government for financial assistance, to provide summer employment for students who are enrolled in a Community College or University in the area of planning or administration courses. Any student who may be interested please contact the Stanhope Municipal Office prior to March 22, 1978.

The Stanhope Fire Department went all out on Saturday night and held one of the most successful dances held in that area for some time. 135 people attended and all report a tremendous evening from the start to the finish. The money raised from this evening went toward the new fire hall. Quite a number from Haliburton attended and they are still talking about the wonderful time they had. Bob Long and his band from Haliburton kept the crowd on the dance floor for most of the evening with their toe tapping music and the hot buffet lunch served during the evening was right out of this world. As one gentleman told us the roast beef was the best he had tasted for some time.

Report from Queen's Park

by MPP John Eakins

There has been considerable debate in the Legislature about the proposed 37.5% increase in OHIP premium rates, announced in the Provincial Budget of March 7th. Liberal Leader Stuart Smith stated he "can't accept" this increase, which means that OHIP premiums have gone up by a total of 100% in the last two years. However, he stopped short of moving non-confidence at this stage. The Liberal Party won agreement to the proposal that the Standing Committee on Social Policy be asked to search for alternatives to the premium increase. Stuart Smith warned the government that it would ignore the Committee's recommendations "at its peril". The NDP has moved non-confidence on this issue. Dr. Smith has condemned this action as irresponsible, pending the results of Committee consideration of the matter.

Both Opposition Parties gave their "lead-off" speeches in the Budget Debate this past week. David Peterson of London Centre responded on behalf of the Liberals. He deplored the OHIP increase as being regressive taxation, placing an awesome burden on every sector of society, and endorsed the Liberal move to have the matter discussed by the Standing Committee. He was also strongly critical of the lack of government proposals to stimulate job creation in the Province. The Budget contained no measures for permanent job creation in the Province. Only 60,200 summer jobs are planned, and the Government already acknowledges that, of the 700,000 students expected to be on the job market this summer, at least 100,000 won't find jobs.

In 1977, the budgetary deficit rose to more than $1.6 billion, revenues decreased by $634 million, and net cash requirements have risen by $539 million (50%) since last year's budget estimate. Net debt has reached 9.5% of Gross Provincial Product, and 72.1% of annual revenues. Interest payments of $1.2 billion - $3.3 million a day - are now taking 8.5% of the budget; an increase over last year of 15.4%, the largest dollar increase in the Budget.

The Liberal Party unveiled a 16-point program to stimulate the economy and create jobs.

To encourage increased research and development, we proposed a 100% tax credit for investment by Canadian-controlled companies in R. & D.; that such companies be given preference in the allocation of government research grants and loans; that Wintario funds be committed to the Ontario Research Foundation for distribution to Canadian-controlled companies for research, design and development.

We proposed a number of measures which would conserve energy supplies as well as creating job opportunities - compulsory insulation standards; a comprehensive program of thermal upgrade, retrofitting and insulation of existing structures; energy-efficiency rating of all energy-consuming devices, including houses; a major commitment to a conservation/renewable energy program, etc.

To stimulate the construction industry, we proposed investment of pension funds in the capital market and reducing red-tape and planning delays, by curtailing the power of the Ontario Municipal Board.

We urged the Government to pursue a "Buy Canadian" policy and set a target of 40% of Government contracts and sub-contracts to go to small business within a three-year period, and to pay 20% of the salary of each additional worker hired by small business, up to a net gain in previously unemployed people of ten persons per firm, for a period of three years, for salaries up to $10,000 per year.

Once again we called for improved guidance counselling and manpower planning, and the institution of an improved and expanded apprenticeship program, matching applicants to employers. This would incorporate a Labour Market Information Service, to determine future manpower requirements, and a Vocational Counselling Service.

Bill Smiley

If you missed a column recently, it was because my big brother died, and between making arrangements, phoning family, and emotional exhaustion, I didn't have much heart for turning out a column, the first time I've missed in about 25 years.

It's not that I went around weeping and tearing my hair. We don't do that in the Smiley family, although I've nothing against it. It's just that when one of your immediate family goes, it makes a gap in your own life, whether you were close or not. And it's also a reminder of your own mortality.

My big brother was five years older, and, naturally, something of a hero for me at times. He got all the good looks in the family: six feet tall, blond curly hair, strong white teeth, a great physique.

He was a top athlete in high school. He passed, kicked and ran on the football team, and set a high jump record that lasted for some years. So you can imagine that little brother often basked in reflected glory.

Because of the age difference, he hung around with a different crowd, but he was kind to me, and did for me a lot of things fathers are supposed to do with their sons. Like playing catch, showing me how to stick-handle a puck, letting me help gather sap and make syrup, and one glorious day about this time of year, allowing me to fire two shots at a tree with his .22 I was about 10 and it was some big deal.

He had a strange sort of life, because he was a combination of doer and dreamer. He was a young man in the latter part of the Depression, and it was a bad time to be a young man, in some ways. His first job was in a bank, at a miserable pittance. He was like a young bear in a cage.

With some kindred spirits, he left the bank, they bought a Model T, and with a few dollars each, they headed north. I went into hardrock mining and within a year was a shift boss, making big money for the times. He liked the hard rough work and play of miners.

I remember the first time he came home from the north, for Christmas, huge, hearty, laughing, with generous presents for all, and to the horror of his young brother, whiskey on his breath. Funny, that memory. He was never much of a drinker.

Came the war, and he joined early, obtaining a commission in the Engineers. He went overseas with the body of young Canadians who were to spend the next three or four years training and frustrated in damp old England.

Next time I saw him, he was almost dead. I had just arrived in England, a young sprog of a pilot, and was informed that big brother had been blown up by a land mine. I went to the hospital, as I did again more than 30 years later, and found him in rough shape. The shrapnel from the mine had almost cut him in two, and he was still picking bits of it out of his skull and body just before he died. But the medics patched him up and within months he was out squiring the nurses around the local pubs, minus one eye, but very much alive.

The three Smiley brothers got together fairly often for weekend leaves in London. To the disgust of my little brother and I, big brother would try to organize everything for us, treat us with paternal pride, and try to keep us from sowing too many wild oats, which we were only too keen to do.

A year after the war, he and I got married, within a few weeks of each other, and our wives struck up a close friendship. Then I was off to the dull safety of university and he was off on a series of bizarre and adventurous jobs.

First it was away up to Port Radium on Great Bear Lake, to mine pitchblende for radium. Then he worked as a construction boss for some quasi-government agency, in Southern Ontario. Next he bought a well driller's rig and got into that.

First thing I know, he's off to South America to run a gold mine that did well but was closed when the government decided to build a dam that would close the mine. Back to Canada. Side trips to Puerto Rico where there was a big job building houses. That didn't pan out.

Then a year or two in Newfoundland, building highways. Various jobs after that. I was never quite sure where he was, what he was doing, or who he was working for. But there was always that indomitable dream that the next job was going to hit real paydirt and set him for life.

Two weeks before he died he told me with great enthusiasm about a trip he'd made recently to Costa Rica, and felt there were great opportunities down there for him as soon as he got on his feet.

I'm sad that the big dream was always just over the horizon, and that he never quite achieved it. But I'm glad for his sake that he kept trying. There were lots of times when he could have settled into a nine to five job and lived dully and safely for the rest of his life.

But in this age, when everyone is seeking to wrap himself in a security blanket, he remained a boy at heart, ready to drop everything, pack up and go to the ends of the earth for a look at something new and exciting. May he rest in the peace he never found on this earth.

Park fees rise this year

Most of the recommendations made by the Ontario Provincial Parks Council in its 1976 annual report have been accepted with the remainder still under study, Natural Resources Minister Frank S. Miller said recently.

Two key recommendations to be put into effect by the Ministry of Natural Resources this year are a revised provincial parks fee structure and stronger enforcement of park regulations to help combat rowdiness.

"One of the council's recommendations regarding park revenues related to operating and maintenance costs is reflected in the recently announced increase in park fees," Miller said. "The council suggested that park users pay a fair portion of costs. We hope that the new rates will recover 60 per cent of costs which in our view is a fair share."

Report from Parliament

by William C. Scott, M.P.

Editors note: The following is an excerpt from Hansard, the report of House of Commons debates, sent to the Echo by Mr. Scott in lieu of a column this week.

Mr. W.C. Scott (Victoria-Haliburton): Mr. Speaker, my question is directed to the Minister of Regional Economic Expansion and follows questions posed by my colleagues several days ago in the House. On a number of occasions I have approached the minister's department asking that regions of southern and central Ontario be considered for DREE eligibility. In light of increased unemployment which indicates that these areas are every bit as needy as some other regions favoured by his department, is the minister now prepared to give my request serious consideration?

Hon. Marcel Lessard (Minister of Regional Economic Expansion): Mr. Speaker, I give very serious consideration to representations made by hon. members on problems which they encounter in their own region but there are of course limits which I must respect. One must remember that I come across problems too and I would like to say also to the hon. member and to those from this part of Ontario who made representations to ministers that we are currently negotiating amendments to existing agreements with the government of Ontario. So it is possible that within the next few days we will be able to announce that progress has been made which will allow us to help the regions mentioned by the hon. member.

Mr. Scott: Mr. Speaker, on February 8, 1978, approximately five weeks ago, I wrote the minister suggesting that we get together to discuss this matter personally, as it affects my riding. I have not yet received a reply to that request. I ask the minister if he will consider discussing this important matter with me, so that I can present the case for the people of my region.

Mr. Lessard: Mr. Speaker, I can inform the hon. member that he will receive a reply, because I signed the answer to his letter a couple of days ago.

An hon. Member: It is in the mail.

OFA announces Farm Price Index for consumer info

The Farmer Price Index (FPI), a new program to help consumers understand what is happening to their food dollar, was announced today by Peter Hannam, President of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture.

Speaking at a news conference at OFA offices, Mr. Hannam said, each month the OFA will be releasing the FPI to show what the farmer gets. Because it is based on the same formula as the Consumer Price Index, consumers can compare the two and determine why prices are changing.

Hannam explained, there is a real need for a better educated public in these days of inflation and economic difficulties. Consumers look at prices on the shelf and find them increasing every month. Yet the incomes of the farmers who produce this food are steadily declining. Consumers need to know why.

"Statistics Canada should be producing these comparisons, but they are not", said Hannam. "We farmers have therefore taken it upon ourselves to provide this much needed information."

Hannam pointed out that in the year ending February, 1978, the Farmer Price Index has increased by 12.8 per cent. It is expected, the arch Consumer Price Index for food will be up by 17 or 18 per cent.

Hannam explained, the difference was due primarily to the increasing cost of imports, particularly citrus fruits, fresh vegetables, tea and coffee.

On the other hand, prices for Ontario and Canadian farm products showed considerable price moderation.

For example, prices to the farmer on dairy products were up only 8.8 per cent. Poultry was up 4.2 per cent. Eggs were down 3.4 per cent. And with the exception of apples, whose price has been floated, the negotiated price

Non burnable containers banned in Algonquin Park

A significant step to protect the environment of the interior of Algonquin Park was announced today by Natural Resources Minister Frank Miller. After April 1, 1978, only burnable food and drink containers may be taken into the interior of Algonquin Park by canoe trippers and hikers.

Only the park interior is affected by this new regulation. The organized campgrounds along Highway 60 for processing fruits and vegetables declines from the previous year.

The year to year increase for beef was 19.2 percent to the farmer and 33.1 percent to the consumer. By contrast, pork prices for the farmer rose 27.9 percent while consumer prices rose only 15.3 percent.

within the park itself are not included.

"These restrictions are the direct result of a successful experiment introduced last year in Quetico Provincial Park," Miller said. "The results were all positive. Litter was considerably reduced, the quality of the environment improved and the subsequent cost of garbage removal was materially lowered."

The Canadian War Museum seeks to strengthen its collection of military artifacts and at this time especially wishes to acquire uniforms, weapons, medals, military books, insignia and photographs concerning the military history of North America from 1604 to the present. Artifacts relating to the allied and enemy forces from the First and Second World Wars, and from Peace Keeping Assignments are also of interest, as are the common everyday items used by Canadian military personnel in the war zones, in rest areas behind the lines, and at home.

These are for display, future reference and research in the Canadian War Museum in the national capital and other allied Canadian military museums. The Canadian War Museum would be pleased to hear from any of your readers, who may be able to assist in this requirement.

Yours sincerely,

To the Editor:

An authentic 100 year old Log Cabin rebuilt in Downtown Belleville, is the Headquarters for our City's Centennial, being celebrated this year.

Belleville, a pioneer United Loyalist settlement, has been the home of many diverse personalities such as the well known author Susanna Moodie; the irascible former newspaper reporter who for a short time was Canada's Prime Minister, Sir Mackenzie Bowell; and Bill Davis, the talented Hollywood Producer of the Sonny and Cher Show and the upcoming John Denver Special.

Our City is situated 120 miles east of Toronto on the MacDonell Cartier Freeway, and is on the main Canadian National Rail Line from Toronto to Montreal.

The Citizens of Belleville extend a friendly invitation to all former residents to join with them for their Centennial celebrations and especially Homecoming Week starting July 30th. Homecoming Week will feature exciting parades, moonlight cruises on the beautiful Bay of Quinte, ethnic feasts and band concerts. Of course, it will also be a time of reunion and family gatherings.

Got an interesting article out of the Woodstock paper last week. The article was written by Steve Coad sports writer for the Woodstock news. In the article he went on to say that rookie Bernie Nicholls of the Navy Vets almost won the scoring race in the junior "B" loop.

"I made a couple of calls yesterday in an attempt to find out just where Navy Vets' Bernie Nicholls rests in the race for the South-western junior B scoring championship.

Nicholls, a bright light in a lacklustre season for Vets, accumulated 79 points over the 40-game schedule. Not a bad total, but probably not good enough to win the title. The 16-year-old Vet star is currently deadlocked for the lead with London's Jim Mathews, but while Nicholls is through for the year, Mathews and the Diamonds still have one game remaining.

Mathews isn't the only player who still has a chance of thwarting Nicholls. Brantford speedster Lance Miller has 77 points and he and his mates still have a game with cellar-dwelling Tillsonburg Mavericks. Nicholls' chances don't look great because, with playoff positions already decided, Mathews and Miller will both likely see lots of ice time and plenty of passes.

During Vets' regular season finale on Friday night, Nicholls picked up three goals and three assists. He spent the last 10 minutes of the game on the ice - without a breather - trying to add to his totals. But his season is done and now the pressure rests with Mathews and Miller. In all likelihood the Woodstock rookie will finish third.

In any case he has one statistic that no one will get close to seven hat tricks in a single season. No wonder his coach, Ed MacQueen, used to brag that on many nights Nicholls' play alone was worth the price of admission."

Back to the local scene the Minden juveniles are one game away from an all Ontario final and could move into that on Saturday with a win in Havelock. The team has been led in this series by Brian Shaw, however Dave Brown has returned to the line up and will definitely be added strength. Hats off to the Minden Minor hockey as they appear to be having a good year with two teams prepared to advance to an all Ontario final as the bantams hold a 2-1 lead over Creemore.

I made a couple of bets with two people involved in hockey in Haliburton on the Huskie series and I promised these people if I lost it would appear in print, so keep watching for the results.

Haliburton F.S.C. News

The Haliburton Figure Skating Club is nearing the end of another successful season. Registrations completed last October, showed a membership of 38 Juniors and 14 Senior Skaters for the 1977-78 season. These girls and a few junior boys have worked hard and many have progressed onto higher levels in the National Skating Tests. So far, only one senior has had the opportunity to attend a test day, the skater being Martha Carnochan who was successful in passing her Preliminary Figure and Swing Dance at the Minden Test Day.

"Valentine Fantasy" was the club's Carnival Theme in February and many favourable comments were heard about the valentines, cupid, arrows, etc. The club wishes to thank the general public for their support, and "The Echo" for the coverage it gave the carnival. The skaters do enjoy displaying their talents and appreciate the encouragement they receive from the viewers.

A special Thank-You to Dr. Harry Good who so kindly donated a very well equipped First Aid Box to the Figure Skating Club. Although the group didn't have to use it this season, it will certainly be very useful when and if the time comes for quick medical attention. There have been a number of Junior Test Days during the season and the following results show they have progressed well. Those who have received Badges are: Beginners Badge: Colin Sisson, Cindy Sisson, Erin Curry, Cameron Dixon, Cassandra Amorose, Tabitha Pringle, Kendra Curry, Keri Lyn Brown, Cynthia Byers, Tracy Pizinger. Pee Wees to the finals

The Haliburton Tri County pee wees have advanced to the finals by dumping the Minden team 2-1 in the series.

After winning the first game at Haliburton the team travelled to Minden for game two in the best of three and beaten 3-0 by Minden. Kevin Forbes led the Minden attack with two goals and Dannt Stiver picked up the single.

In the final game Marla McNaull and Harold Rowbottom fired two goals each and Sheldon McMurray fired one as Haliburton downed Minden 5-1. The lone Minden goal came off the stick of Kevin Forbes.

The win now advances Haliburton to the finals against Keene and at this time the series has not been set up.

Good standup goal tending was the key to Lakefield's win over the Huskies Sunday night in Lakefield. Here Chiefs goalie Jim Gilliam stands firm as the Huskies Joe Roberts and Tim Bain combine. Gilliam thwarted the Huskies in this shot and many more as he led his team to a 9-4 victory.

Huskies now trail series 2 - 1 after 9 - 2 win, then 9 - 4 loss

The Haliburton Travelways Huskies find themselves trailing in their Central Ontario Junior "D" final 2-1.

After dropping their opening game to the Lakefield Chiefs in Lakefield, the Huskies bounced right back on Friday evening at the Dysart community center to even the series by downing Lakefield to the tune of 9-2.

The Huskies scored three in the first four in the second and two in the third to tie the series at one each. Jay Wooten opened the scoring at the 1:14 mark from Scheffee and Barras. Again at 6:36 a power play goal off the stick of Jim Thompson from Stinson and Scheffee. Lakefield got back in the game at 8:36 when Kevin Ohara was sent off for elbowing and Lakefield's Greg Palmer beat Ellison in the Huskie net. The Huskies took a 3-1 lead at 14:39 when Randy Barras tipped one by the Lakefield goalie on a pretty passing play from Wooten and Scheffee.

In the second period the Huskies took complete control of the game as they outscored the visitors 4-1 with two coming on the power play. Andy Salvatori scored at the 3:09 mark from Robert and Oram. At 15:33 Curry unassisted, again at 17:46 Roberts unassisted and at 19:52 Salvatori got his second of the game and after two periods it stood at 7-2 Huskies.

The third period was anything but exciting hockey as the Lakefield team appeared to concede the game and the Huskies content at going through the motions and playing defensively. But at 2:37 Joe Roberts fired his second of the night from Curry and Oram and at 12:27 Tom Curry scored an unassisted goal to round out the scoring and the Huskies took a 9-2 win much to the delight of the large crowd in attendance.

Sunday evening in Lakefield saw a disorganized Huskie team going through the motions as Lakefield rolled over them 9-4.

It appeared early in the game that the referees were going to lose control of the game as they appeared to be inconsistent in their calls. For two periods it appeared that the players were not concerned with playing hockey, but would rather fight at any opportunity.

Lakefield opened the scoring on a power play goal at 11:07 when Greg Palmer beat Randy Ellison. Three and one half minutes later they made it 2-0 on another power play goal. This one came off the stick of Dan Payne unassisted. In the second period it appeared briefly that Haliburton might get back on track as they scored at the 11 second mark. Barry Shaw was credited with the goal from Curry and Bain. Nineteen seconds later Lakefield once again regained the two goal lead when Paul Graham from Randy Freeburn made it 3-1. Another power play goal at 2:28 increased Lakefield's lead to three goals as Greg Palmer combined with Armstrong and Spencer. Lakefield made it 5-1 on another power play goal at 3:03 as Palmer scored his third of the night.

At this point the referees had lost complete control of the game and it took very little coaxing as Tim Oram and Greg Palmer squared off with Oram winning a unanimous decision, despite being tossed out of the game. It appeared as if with each check that it would be another fight and two minutes later Larry Stinson and Lakefield's Bob Smith went at it in front of the net. Both players

Along the Trails by Roy Bates

On the weekend of March 11 a group of 27 members of the Palmerston Snow Kings visited Haliburton Forest and Wildlife Trails. This fact in itself is hardly newsworthy for club visits to Haliburton forest are everyday events. What is notable about this visit is that ten of the group arrived by snowmobile, riding 342 miles in three days.

The ten hardy male members of the club left Listowel, which is about fifty miles as the crow flies on this side of Lake Huron, at 8:30 on Wednesday morning, making their way to Wasaga Beach in the first day and to Minden in the second. Two faithful wives followed their progress by pick-up truck, meeting them at strategic points with gas and oil.

The riders reported that all trails along the journey were well-groomed. This we can believe - for they travelled through some of the best snowmobiling regions of the Province and trail systems maintained by numerous progressive associations and clubs.

The rest of the group came by car and truck, joining the cross-country riders Friday night for a memorable weekend on Haliburton Forest trails. All went home tired but happy on Sunday.

This is but one of the many trips we have heard about this year. It serves, as the others have, to illustrate a changing trend in snowmobiling. No longer are we content to ride up and down on the old familiar trails.

To one who has been involved with snowmobile trail development these many years, it is most encouraging to witness the growing interest in club linkups and to watch a provincial trail grid emerge.

A Welcome at Walkerton

The people of Walkerton have made hospitality an art! When the Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs went there for its March directors meeting its members were overwhelmed by the hospitality of the local snowmobilers and the staff at the Hartley Hotel.

The six of us who arrived on Friday night were scarcely settled in our rooms when a call came in inviting us out to the Queensbush Snowmobile Club's farmhouse-clubhouse for a social get-together. Here, a local landlord had turned over an unused farmhouse for the club to do with as it pleased. Floors were carpeted, good furniture acquired, the kitchen fully equipped, and a furnace and bathroom installed. We had three tables of euchre going for several hours and thoroughly enjoyed the friendly atmosphere. The whole exercise was repeated on Saturday night after the evening session of our meeting. This time several members of neighboring clubs joined in the fun.

And the hotel! Where but in Walkerton would you find a complete smorgasbord, more than you can eat, for $2.50? And where else in these days can you walk up to the checkout desk and get away with $29.00 for a room with bath for two people, two days? A delicious birthday cake to honour one of our members was served at Sunday lunch compliments of the chef!

If the opportunity ever arises, we shall return to Walkerton. We hope visitors to Haliburton are voicing a similar sentiment.

Bike Riders Organize

Safety, self-rule and the improvement of the public image are but three of the aims of the newly formed Haliburton County Motorcycle Association. We attended as a guest an organizational meeting of this club last week and were impressed by the businesslike manner in which the group went about establishing its constitution. Protection of the environment and compatibility with the public and other recreationists are major concerns.

The club has 21 paid up members with a potential of perhaps a hundred in its first year. A full general meeting is planned for late in April at which time a constitution will be adopted and a full board of directors elected. It is intended to operate with two separate divisions - the road bike enthusiast and the trail bike rider. Interim committees have already been set up to establish guidelines and plan events for both categories.

Service to the community was not forgotten. Someone has suggested a road-side clean-up - garbage sweep - as an early Spring activity! We wish the HCMC every success.

P.S.T. Tourney

The Zone Round of the Thomas Adams Presidents, Secretaries and Treasurers Bowling tournament was held at Bancroft Lanes on Saturday with some mighty fine games being bowled.

Bill Koz, a master bowler from Fenelon Falls, with a minus 13 handicap was the top President with 798; Doug Leonard of Canarvon Lanes was runner up with 714.

Eva Piper of Canarvon was the high Secretary with 791; Brenda Card of Bancroft second with 748. For Treasurers it was Mervin Dunn of Bancroft with 800 and in second place Audrey Fountain one point behind with 799.

Congratulations to all. The top three now bowl for the Provincial Championships at London, Ontario.

Minden Rotary

Skate-A-Thon

Entries for the Minden Rotary Skate-a-thon are still being accepted, and it is expected that many more skaters will pick up their pledge sheets by Friday, Minden Rotary Club president Don Burch said Monday.

The Skate-a-thon was started to help all local organizations raise funds. Half of the money raised will go to the Minden Rotary Club for community work, and the other half will go to the organization for which the skater gets pledges.

All costs of putting on the even will be paid for by the Minden Rotary Club. There is no admission charge for any spectator who wants to watch the skaters in action.

The picture tells it all as the Havelock goalie lays dejected on the ice after Minden scored their third goal in Monday night's game in Minden. The Minden team went on to take a convincing 6-2 win and a 3-2 lead in the all Ontario semi finals.

Minden takes Stranglehold on series with - 6 - 2 win

The Minden Vasey Juveniles have taken a stranglehold on their best of seven series with Havelock. On Monday evening at the Minden arena the home town Kings took a convincing 6-2 win from Havelock in a hard hitting chippy game. Minden now leads the series 3-2 with the sixth game in Havelock this Saturday night.

Brian Shaw once again led the Minden team with the hat trick, and Dave Brown, who just returned from a four game suspension, got two with Bill Hogg getting the single. The Referees had their hands full as they handed out 70 minutes in penalties with Minden picking up 34 minutes.

Minden could wrap up the series Saturday night in Havelock with a win and would then advance to the all-Ontario final against Watford or Belmont who are playing off. With a team effort on Saturday Minden could win this series but they will have to stay away from the costly penalties which they seem to take on the road.

Huskie's Tom Curry unloads a shot on Lakefield goalie Mark Thornton in last Friday's action at the Dysart arena. The Huskies went on to a 9-2 romp over the Lakefield chiefs to even their finals series at one each.

received fighting majors plus minors for their antics. Palmer squared off with Haliburton's Mike Scheffee and was given a good beating by Scheffee before being thrown from the game. Lakefield took time out from the fistfuffs to score two more power play goals and take a commanding 7-1 lead to end the second period.

Both teams appeared to regain their sanity in the third period with the Huskies out scoring Lakefield three to two with Ed Roberts picking up two and Tom Curry fired the other and the Huskies headed home with a 9-4 loss. Game four goes this Friday evening at the Dysart arena with game five back in Lakefield Sunday evening at 8 p.m.

Huskie notes:

The Huskies had the services of Kevin Ohara up from the Beaconbrook midget team and along with Ed Roberts they seemed to play a fair game for the Huskies. The Lakefield chiefs have picked up a goalie from Bewdley for this series as an O.H.A. rule allows a team in case of injuries to pick up a goalie from a team that has been eliminated.

Curling

by Tom Stinson

With the club schedules winding down, playoffs for the various club trophies begin next week. In the mixed curling - Thursday at 7 pm - Ray Scott's rink of Kit Koehler, Walter Webb and Bunney Scott lead with 116 points, followed by Bob Collier, who has with him wife Jean, Ken Fielding and Marie Wallace with 98 1/2 points. Clark Bailey with Anne Hopkins, Doug Brohm and Judy Mann are next in line.

The 9 o'clock draw had a tight finish with Joe Iles rink of Dorothy Wilson, Curry Bishop and Sheila Popple tied at 112 points with John Beachli, who has with him Anne McNaul, Gord Woolsey and Barb Dawson. In third spot is Dave Gray's foursome of Debbie Wilson, Gerry Dawson and Susan Woodcock.

Wilberforce are holding a 1 day mixed this coming Saturday and have room for a couple of rinks.

It was good to see Jack and Willie Cox around the rink last week. Jack is on his annual leave from his engineering job in Indonesia. With the school break the curling rink is not busy this week, but resumes clean-up games Monday, March 27.

The Minden seniors schedule wound up with dinner and prizes on Monday, March 20. Cec Yearwood's rink with Les Walling vicing won the top honors in a final play-off with Ed Pettinger who had Tom Stinson vicing.

It was great news to hear Canada's good junior rink won the world championship for the 3rd year in a row. And this speaks well for Canada's future hopes in the silver broom. This year Alberta will represent Canada at Winnipeg, coming up next week.

Two rinks out of Haliburton travelled to Huntsville on Saturday, March 18 for the annual St. Patrick's Mixed Bonspiel. After six years of attending this Spiel, Clarke Bailey came up with a winning combination. His team finished third in the three 8-end game event as a result of being high two game winners. Along with Clarke were Kit Koehler, Jack Starkey and Sheila Elston. The other Haliburton rink attending the Spiel registered as being from Indonesia! Jack and Willie Cox, back home for three weeks, teamed up with Bill and Bea Everson, and although they could not come up with a win, they enjoyed the chance to get back into Curling.

Eneraction office promotes energy conservation ideas

Project Director Victoria Hadden, heading the newly opened Eneraction office at 20 York St., South in Lindsay said today that the energy conservation program to which her team is dedicated "is a federally funded job creation project which is no mere token employment for those involved."

"We take ourselves and our responsibilities very seriously," Miss Hadden said, "and the response by the public has been most gratifying, indicating that people are becoming genuinely interested in energy conservation."

Miss Hadden directs the activities undertaken by Eneraction to underline the urgency of energy conservation and to show how a more cautious and restrained use of energy in all its forms can result in direct savings in dollars and cents to the public.

The project Director has surrounded herself with enthusiastic contributors to the program.

Each member of the team was carefully selected not only for whatever specific technical requirement he or she offered, but for involvement and enthusiasm with the whole idea of energy conservation," Miss Hadden said.

"The result is that we have men and women who are sincerely interested in making a success of the job."

Miss Hadden said that success for the Eneraction team would be measured by the assistance provided the public and by the number of people who responded to the program. She stated that despite a somewhat low-key publicity campaign prior to the official opening of the York St. office, numerous people have volunteered information and shared energy saving tips and successes.

"We are determined to prove that Lindsay can be a leader in the campaign to seek sensible use of energy in all its forms," Miss Hadden said, and we're not here merely to justify our existence, but to do a thorough and productive job in the curtailment of waste and excess of energy sources which are of vital importance to our future and the future of our children."

Miss Hadden welcomes telephone calls to the Eneraction centre with its easily remembered number 324-5-A-V-E.

"Our switchboard is in operation from 8:30 a.m. till 5:30 p.m., Monday through Friday," she said, "and we most certainly welcome those who would like to visit us. We invite ideas or suggestions because this is a program for the public," the Eneraction Director said.

"The seven men and women who comprise the Eneraction team are truly dedicated to the project in all its facets," Miss Hadden said, "and we intend to make energy conservation and its benefits well known in the area."

Wolves, deer, and management - an open letter deer moved north from the United States and the southern Great Lakes. "Not everyone agrees with this theory," Mr. Toole points out, "but most authorities see it as a strong possibility."

Previous to the 1950's, the Ministry has no reliable records on the deer population in this area. But the herd sizes peaked in the mid 60's and the pressure of hunting peaked then too. "It has declined since then" Mr. Toole says.

Managing the herds for hunting purposes is a major concern of the Ministry. Last year the season was shortened from two weeks to one. 254 deer were killed during that week. In the previous year's two week season, 439 kills were reported. Hunters attitudes are changing, Mr. Toole says. Most recognize that "the capability of the environment to produce game has been reduced", and they are more inclined to accept the recreational aspect of hunting without the necessity of a kill.

The relationship between deer and wolves in unspoiled areas is natural. But here, Mr. Toole says, "we have upset the balance. We have interfered with this delicate relationship."

The behavioral variations between the classic timber wolf and the brush wolf show up in domestic animal predation. "A classic timber wolf will not attack cattle," Mr. Toole says, "but there are many documented cases of the killing of cattle by wolves in the Haliburton area."

By seeking to reduce the effects of wolf predation on the deer herds, the Ministry is "trading off wolves against deer on a very small scale," Mr. Toole says. To catch wolves which have killed deer "we only use trapping and snaring, which are limited in effectiveness, and which are chosen because their effect on other species is practically nil." "We don't want to see a large scale decimation of the wolf population."

Interfering with nature will never be a simple matter, and it will never please everyone. But if it is done carefully, by trained people like Mr. Toole and his staff, it can ensure that all species of wildlife have a fighting chance to survive the effects of man's alteration of the natural environment. Someday, if all humans learn to be more careful with nature, it might be possible for wolves and deer to exist without interference. For now, we must accept artificial altering of herd and pack sizes for the benefit of both deer and wolves. That way, they'll be here at least as long as we are.

I hope I have answered your questions. As long as you and others like you are interested in our natural heritage, it can be preserved. Your interest is both important and encouraging for the future of all our animals.

News from Extendicare by Dr. O.W. Anderson

Early Monday we were informed of the passing of Mrs. Annie Johnston. She was a very nice lady and will be missed by all of us.

Three movies were shown in the afternoon. The first was a satirical relating of the contest a few decades ago of the interrelationship between the elite of Canada and the eggs of the Canada geese, given a great send off in popularity by the galloping gourmet of the time. For a time it was a red hot craze and died down when the diminishing geese and the protests from the north indicated it was thoroughly unpopular. The second, entitled "The Englishman's horse" indicated the great amount of time and care in training the horses in England, and showed why the English capture so many prizes in equine contests. The third, was called "The old water powered sawmill". A mill owner had a thousand acres of forest which he harvested, not mined, by way of laid out skidding trails. As he related in the film "There are still more logs cut the old way rather than by the chain saw." He was the sole worker in the mill because he simply could not pay the wages. It showed how alone, he processed a log through the mill. He said he has more waste than should put that some day even his waste will have demand.

Very early Tuesday we were assembled to make paper baskets for our Easter eggs. They were simply made by cutting certain patterns from light cardboard then using the stapler fashioning the basket and a handle. We are preparing for Easter. The ladies continued this Wednesday by making pairs of owls in miniature perched on a tree branch. They are quite realistic. Other animal miniatures were not so much so.

Thursday was our monthly birthday party, there being two to honor, Mrs. Mabel Stone and Mrs. Lola McColl. There was the sing song of old favourites, pictures taken of the honored participants cutting the cake and smiling finally followed by eating the cake with tea, juices or milk. Everyone enjoyed themselves. Music was by Mrs. Betty Salvatori pianist accompanied by Charles Plewman on harmonica.

Only a good photographer or an artist can make a purse out of a sow's ear.

We have quite a number of geranium seedling and the same from leaf cuttings. If our plants continue as they have up till now we should have a good showing when it is time to put them out. This year we will try to propagate some pansies for a change. We get the impression that for some reason they do not have the appeal they had some years back. Now it seems that zinnias or marigolds or such like have taken the preference.

Our devotional period Friday morning was conducted by Rev. Ron Thornton of the Gospel Church in Minden, Ms. Sheila Elston pianist. The theme was that Christ is always ready to grant requests made in His name. It was a nice service consisting of the hymn singing, the prayers, the sermon, and a social half hour after over tea and cookies and mainly a discussion of St. Patrick's day. The Irish are having their share of trouble these few years back, largely religious stemming from the battle of the Boyne which neither side for some strange reason cannot leave to the historians. The Irish Republican Army seemingly have taken on the task of punishing northern Ireland for their sins, utterly forgetting they have sins of their own. It is a strange feud between Catholics and Protestants that the whole world should note. The Scots have

Junior Ranger program to be increased

An additional 300 high school students will be hired for junior ranger jobs this summer by the Ministry of Natural Resources, increasing the total number to 1,980. The extra 300 will be chosen from the more than 3,200 applications already received. February 1, 1978, had been the deadline.

The stepped-up program was announced today by Natural Resources Minister Frank Miller as part of the Ontario government's plan to provide more employment for students this year.

"Another feature we are introducing this year 150 junior foreman positions," Miller said. "They will help in supervision duties at our 74 camps across the province and earn $5 daily more than junior rangers."

Because experience is essential, the Ministry is seeking applications from former junior rangers for these positions. Applicants should contact the Ministry District Office where they were previously employed.

Junior ranger jobs are limited to high school students who are 17 years of age. Girls are expected to fill 39 per cent of the expected 1,980 positions this year.

Junior rangers are paid $10 per day for a six day work week and provided with room and board and transportation costs over $25 return to their camp location. The program starts on July 5 and ends August 26.

Hydro bills will now show daily consumptions

An extra item of information has been added to Ontario Hydro bills to help customers measure how well their conservation efforts are working.

Starting this month the revised bill, sent to Hydro's 800,000 rural customers, will show a customer's average daily use of electricity. The bill, when based on a meter reading, will indicate the average use of electricity in kilowatt hours per day.

The average daily use figure will be calculated from individual meter readings every three months.

Ed Kulperger, planning superintendent at Ontario Hydro's conservation division, says the figures on the revised bill will fluctuate with the seasons. "If customers keep their bills for a year and compare them from one year to the next, then they'll be able to see how well their conservation efforts are working."

Kulperger said that for years people have been rating the efficiency of their automobiles by measuring the miles per gallon performance. He added that the same idea can be applied to electricity consumption.

He also noted that some of the best ways to reduce the average daily use of electricity are to turn off unnecessary lights, cut down on the use of hot water and use less heat. Kulperger said if these measures are taken they will save energy and help offset increased electricity prices.

OPP report occurrences

During the week of March 13 to 19, officers of the Minden detachment of the OPP investigated some 48 general occurrences.

There were three reportable and one non reportable motor vehicle accidents. Two persons were charged with liquor offences and seven cottages were found to be insecure.

Gems of Truth

If ever there was a case of injustice in the courts, it was as the lowly Jesus was arranged before the high officials and condemned for crimes which He never committed. John 18:12-19-24. Math 26:57-68, 27:1-2, 11-31. The garden of Gethsemane was the scene of arrest and escorting of the Captive to the house of the High Priest's house where the scribes and elders had a counsel with Annas and Caiaphas. John 18:12-14. The disciples of Jesus had all forsaken Him at the arrest, but now Peter, trying to make good his boast of never being offended by His Lord's ordeal, sneaked in the back door of the porch of the high-priest's house and warmed himself at the fire. The thrice denial of Peter followed. John 18:15-27. Apparently the disciple John found his way into the palace of the high-priest, being known by him, and witnessed the rough treatment the Captive received at the hands of the high officials and religious leaders of Judaism. John 18:15, Luke 22:63-65.

The events of that fateful night are appalling and the injustice showered upon the Lord Jesus the Lamb, almost defy description. He was hustled from one authority to another and false witnesses used to lay the charges. It is thus that we find Jesus standing before the Roman governor Pilate. Having decided by the Sanhedrin in the high-priest's house, that Jesus was a blasphemer and guilty of death, Jesus was escorted into the presence of Pilate as jury had no right of courts to carry out a death penalty. They were under the overlordship of Rome at this time, hence the court of Pilate was engaged to carry to fulfillment the death penalty.

In the early morning the Captive was escorted to Pilate's Hall where the unjust trial continued. Math 27:1-2, 11-14, John 18:28-40, Luke 23:1-5. Before Pilate the accusation was laid that Jesus is a trouble-maker, claiming to be a king and opposing Caesar's tribute money. The question period by Pilate was interrupted when he found that Jesus hailed from Galilee and rightfully the case belonged to the jurisdiction of Herod, therefore He was brought before him as he was also in Jerusalem at this time. Luke 23:6-12. Herod was extremely glad to see the Prisoner as he had heard many "good" things about Him. However, the Prisoner was absolutely silent during the question period and Herod had his men give a mocking-party and thereupon sent Him back again to Pilate. Luke 23:11.

The time was now at hand when the Passover lamb was being prepared for the Feast Day and Jesus is again in Pilate's hands and examined as to the charges laid against Him. This time Pilate the governor declared the Accused not guilty, yet was afraid to set Him free because of the uproar that was pending. John 19:12-13. What a weakling Pilate truly was! Upon the cry that he would not be Caesar's friend if he let this self-acclaimed King free, the unjust sentence was given to crucify Him as had been asked for, and He was delivered into the hands of His accusers and soldiers allotted to the carrying out the deed. Math 27:26-31.

As if in an attempt to clear his guilty conscience Pilate had a placard placed at the top of the cross which read "Jesus of Nazareth, the King of the Jews". It was written in three languages so all who had come to the Passover Feast might read it. John 19:19-20. A request was made by the chief-priests to change this sign-board to read the self-claim of Jesus to be a King, but Pilate refused. There is that much to his credit at least. Verse 22.

The question is often asked, "who really killed the Lord Jesus? Was it Jewry or Rome? The true answer is that "neither" one of these killed Him. Scripture specifically says that Jesus "gave" His life as a ransom for man's sin. The True Passover Lamb was sacrificed for sin by the foreordained knowledge of the Creator. The plan of redemption was not a last-minute attempt to restore sinful, disobedient mankind into fellowship with their Creator again, but was carried out in due time according to His plan. The unjust trial was just another evidence of the deceitfulness of sin and was carried out by religious and secular hands. It is thus that we hear the cry from the cross, "Father forgive them, for they know not what they do." Luke 23:34. It is here that "He was made sin, who knew no sin, that 'we' might be made the righteousness of God in Him." 2 Cor. 5:21. The one malefactor crucified beside Jesus discovered that truth on the Crucifixion Day. Luke 23:39-43.

"Love is Real" was theme of Presbyterian UCW meeting

"Love is Real" was the theme of the 16th Annual meeting of Peterborough Presbyterian United Church Women held recently in Knox United Church, Peterborough. The 225 ladies present were welcomed by Presbyterian president Mrs. Audrey Craft and Knox U.C.W. president Mrs. S. Whitfield. Greetings from Conference U.C.W. were brought by president Mrs. Marion Davis. Sing-songs led by Miss Mignon Mayneord with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Jeanne McMahon, Bethany, introduced both the afternoon and evening sessions. The afternoon worship service was conducted by George Street United Church Women. Miss Clara Seens led in a memorial service for U.C.W. members who have died during the past year.

Encouraging reports were presented by each of the Committee chairpersons. Of particular interest was the Mission and Service financial report which indicated that the 1977 objective had been substantially exceeded. Objective for 1978 was set at $30,000.

An invitation to hold the 1979 Annual Meeting in Mark Street United Church was greatly appreciated. Guest speaker for the afternoon was Rev. F.C. Sutherst, Probation Officer, Peterborough County Court for the past 18 years and assistant minister at St. Alban's Anglican Church. Mr. Sutherst said that "Love is Real" began with God.

As a probation officer he works with delinquents aged 16 and under. These young offenders are most likely to be influenced by environment, their associates, their sense of protest against law and society as imposed by adults, he said. The Christian family must be aware of its responsibility toward the growing child.

Mr. Sutherst said many early problems arise from lack of communication between adult and child, because children are often regarded as "things" rather than "people". Other factors are inconsistency in parental attitude, sense of inadequacy on the part of the parents which may, unconsciously, be passed on to the child, failure to listen, loneliness, break up in the home, attempts to satisfy the child with material things rather than love, and failure to understand the difference between discipline and punishment.

Factors leading to juvenile delinquency, Mr. Sutherst noted, are perceptual handicaps, often undetected, the child's inability to experience a sense of reality or his inability to experience a sense of responsibility.

Whatever has been the cause of delinquency, the successful Social worker must accept the offender for what he is and help him become what he wants to be in the world of reality which surrounds him. Mr. Sutherst said. Our greatest resources is ourself and the faith that we have, he noted. Christ is the answer to the delinquent's problem but it must be presented to him in a meaningful way.

The first speaker of the evening was Miss Edna Clydesdale of Warsaw, a missionary nurse home on furlough from Nepal. She commented briefly on Christ's admonition to his disciples after his resurrection, "Ye shall receive power to be my witness in all the known world." She asked the question "What does it mean to be a witness for Christ? How can I witness?" Each of us in a different situation and will have a different answer, she said. Her own response, however, was to go to Nepal where she had been engaged, since 1962, as a civil servant in a hospital which trains school nurses.

A film, "Living Water for Nepal" gave an insight into living conditions in the country and the many improvements which have been brought about during the past 25 years. The Christian church is still young there, but has been instrumental in bringing about many of these changes such as improved medical care (medical supplies are flown into remote areas), young people are being trained in mechanical and agricultural skills, general educational system has been revised to involve children of every social status.

At present, hospitals are well supplied with bandages etc., but there is a urgent need for children's clothing. The evening worship service was conducted by Trinity U.C.W.

Second speaker of the evening was Robert Johnston, Director of Family Counselling in Peterborough since 1970. His Saturday column in the Examiner is widely read. His topic was "What can Christian women do to strengthen family life in the community?" He said that lack of love is often the root of family problems. To many, love is not real but an illusion. It is like a bubble ready to burst under the slightest pressure. Real love, on the other hand, grows wider and stronger as it goes on, he said.

Young people often search for love in futile ways and kill themselves when they fail to find it. We can help because we are part of a family and of a community, Mr. Johnston emphasized. The easier way to help may involve financial assistance, addressing groups in churches or clubs or serving in an executive capacity in some "do good" organization. The more difficult but more worthwhile way involves finding a way to convey the message that "God is Real" and that only through Him can be found the solution to their problems. They must be convinced that He has a plan for families. They must ask him to take charge of their life, he said.

Mr. Johnston strongly denounced abortion, secular education and homosexuality and stated that the Christian church cannot take a "middle of the road" stand on these issues. It must not allow its basics to become liberalized or watered down. The individual person should not hesitate to "be different". We are mistaken if we think that no one has a scheme for rejecting wrong. God most certainly does, Mr. Johnston concluded.

Rev. Harold Wilson, President of Peterborough Presbyterian and minister at Mark Street United Church conducted the installation of the 1978 officers for the Presbyterian U.C.W. A complete list of those officers may be obtained from President Mrs. G. Craft, R.R. #1, Peterborough.

The benediction pronounced by Rev. Ronald Sematon of Knox brought to a close a most meaningful day in the life of Peterborough Presbyterian U.C.W.

Council held its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, March 7. All members were present and the following business was dealt with: The use of the Ministry of Transportation and Communication's grader will be requested for 1978 season.

There was a short discussion regarding ball park improvements and it was decided to ask the Community Centres board to have a meeting and ask John Eason to be present.

Murray Dettlor attended the meeting and discussed with council the McMinn severance applications B1-78 and B2-78.

The resolutions from the County of Grey calling for the restructuring of school boards was endorsed.

Community centres board will be asked to reconsider any charges for the use of the community hall insofar as the Norland Ladies Auxiliary is concerned.

Mrs. Arthur Farrington of the Wee Boutique has returned after spending a month with her sister visiting the islands of Hawaii. Mrs. Farrington said that she enjoyed her visit to this fascinating country very much. I had the pleasure of a trip to Hawaii three years ago and I can well understand her enthusiasm about these picturesque islands. The people are pleasant, happy and most helpful and cooperative in making one's visit a delightful and memorable one. It doesn't seem to matter what time of year that you vacation there, the weather is almost always perfect. So if you are thinking of holidaying in Hawaii, do go because you will probably have to return from this enchanting land.

The lucky winner of Norland Volunteer Firemen's hockey pool on Saturday, March 11 was Mrs. Ida Parry of Cobocok.

Everyone seems to agree that the St. Patrick's Day dance sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary on Saturday, March 11, in the community hall was one of the best ones yet. All of dance tickets were sold and the ladies wish to express their appreciation to everyone who helped with the supper refreshments and also those who supported their raffle by purchasing tickets. First prize of the hamper of groceries was won by John Magee. Ivan (Red) Gray was the winner of the pair of embroidered pillowcases while Peter Magee had the lucky ticket for the macrame hanging and Jim Payne the china tea set. It certainly was the men who won the prizes that evening!

Our sympathy is extended to Mrs. Jack (Annie) Watson in the loss of a dear brother Earl Huggill on Wednesday, March 15 at Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay. Services for Mr. Huggill were from the Jewell 25 pts., D. Boyce 25 pts., K. Watson 24 pts. and J. Maunder 18 pts. Ladies high single Betty Davey 250, High triple - Barbara Maunder 621, and high average - Eileen Forsythe 191 pts. Men's high single - J. Maunder 219, High triple - Adrian Lee 587 and high average - Doug Boyce 190 pts.

Instead of their regular meeting on Thursday March 16, half of the Cobocok Lions attended the meeting of the Lion's in Cannington, while the other half enjoyed the Brechin Lion's meeting. On Wednesday March 22 candidates for the various offices of the zone and district will be in Cobocok to speak on behalf of themselves regarding the Sunshine when you wake in the morning; the bedroom warm when you get out of bed. Blue sky for hours and hours; dry pavements to walk on; unsnowed roads to travel along; Boys and Girls on bikes out of doors; Warm pleasant sunny evenings when you can do a bit of digging and your neighbour does the same; when the earth is fair and living seems worthwhile and spring has really come... all this is in store for you and me, Folk. So keep smiling till winter is just a memory.

The school break has given many folk a chance to travel into sunshine; away now are Mr. & Mrs. Brian Sisson in Barbados; Mrs. Annie Kernohan in Florida with the Tom Parrish Family; the Ron McKelvey and Bernard Trumbulls in Florida.

The United Church Bowling League complete their regular schedule this Tuesday; in the race for top place are Lou Preston - 105, Donna Hicks - 99; Lil Martin took the high triple flat with 712; there are now 3 weeks play-off. Mr. & Mrs. Frank Addison and family of Scarborough; and Mr. & Mrs. Jack Cowan of Elmvalle visited with Mrs. Cora Hewitt on the weekend. Mr. John Eakins M.P.P. was guest speaker at the forthcoming elections. Helpful hint: When pouring liquid from large square cans pour with the hole on the upper most corner of the container. Most people make the mistake of pouring with the opening at the bottom. With careful pouring and the hole near the top of the can can enter the container, resulting in an even continuous flow.

This year's winter school break combined with Easter sees many local residents taking advantage of the extra time to enjoy a holiday away from Norland. Gerry and Joyce Bartley and Earl and Doris Bartley and their families left on Friday March 17 to drive to Myrtle Beach, South Carolina. Dave and Beverly Graham flew to Vancouver and hope to see spring blooms and other points of interest while visiting that warmer Western Canadian province. For all who are not away, but will be spending their holiday at home with or without loved one, I wish you a happy and joyful Easter.

annual Red Cross meeting on March 16th. This meeting followed a banquet at the Fireside Restaurant and was very well attended.

Mr. & Mrs. Ted Johnson visited with the Fred Wrights last week. The local Events Calendar for the next month include the following things: L.O.B.A. Card Party - March 27th; St. Pauls Church Card party for Foster Child - March 29th; Fairytale Cinderella by the Skating Club - April 2nd; Horticultural Meeting, Mr. Leroy Brown Speaker - April 4th; New Library Committee meeting at the Library April 5th.

Mr. & Mrs. Ed Pergolas had their daughter Mrs. Candie Bramhall and son of Guelph visit with them over the weekend and Calin is staying with his grandparents for the March break.

Cobocok News

by Sheila Lake

I have an old issue of the Canadian Farmer paper, dated October 8, 1921 and I'll quote a few prices from it so you can see how good the 'good old days' really were! Dealers were quoting the following prices at country points. Creamery fresh made solids 34 1/2 cent to 35 1/2 cent. Creamery prints 35 to 36 cents, dairy 25 to 30 cents. Eggs were in good demand and dealers were paying 40 to 42 cents per dozen at country points. "Poultry, buying prices delivered, Toronto, as quoted by Wallers, 669 Spadina Ave. per lb. alive - grate fed chickens, 4 lbs and over .25 cents, chickens good farm stock .23 cents. Old hens 6 lbs and over .23 cents. Old hens 5 lbs and over .21 cents. Choice ducks 5 lbs and over .20 cents. For the smokers Players Navy cut cigarettes were 20 for 35 cents. And in real estate how about an ad. that appears on page 21 - $300.00 secures 200 acre farm - a live-wire opportunity. This was advertised by the Strout Farm Agency 306R Manning Chambers, Toronto, Ontario. Interesting was a letter to "Aunt Helen" on page 24, from Dongola, Ont. written by May Porter saying she had passed her exams "into the third book and my sister passed into fourth". May is Mrs. Bert Perry, a well known Norland and area resident, who now living in Lindsay. Another letter to "Aunt Helen" was from Norland, and written by Lizzie Porter, who mentions her cousin Iva Cundill of Fenelon Falls. An advertisement from the "Imperial Bank of Canada with 216 branches in Dominion of Canada" let the readers know they were efficient in handling money and were looking for more clients. Just a little information of life in 1921 when things were not so complicated!

To relatives of Mr. Earl Huggill our deepest sympathy. Mr. Huggill passed away early Tuesday, just four months after the death of his wife, Agatha.

Keith Henderson of Toronto visited long-time friends, Bob and Jean Callan for the day, on Thursday.

Mrs. Olive Bryant was admitted to Ross Memorial Hospital last Sunday and underwent surgery in mid-week. Do hope you are soon better and able to be home again Mrs. Bryant.

Although she lives in Fenelon Falls, she was raised here, a daughter of Tom Bowins, Lois Ballam, is in hospital not very well, and I'm sure she would appreciate a card from some of her old school friends. Get well soon, Lois.

A three day convention held at Faith Tabernacle ended March 17. There was a "packed house" for all services. Rev. Lloyd Pangburn from Fredrickton, N.B. was the evening speaker, each night, while other ministers, were speakers in the morning and afternoon services. Rev. Rhael Revest from Quebec, Rev. Gary Penner of Lindsay, Rev. Glen Rosch of Haliburton and Rev. W. Cross were among the guest ministers.

Mrs. G. Lake and Mrs. A. Marles were Wednesday dinner visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Rod Harrison at Queenville.

A friend gave me this poem read at a Presbyterian Church in Ft. Annansas, Texas, where they attended service on a Sunday two weeks ago.

I know something good about you

Wouldn't this old world be better,
If the folks we meet would say,
I know something good about you.
And treat you just that way.
Wouldn't it be fine and dandy,
If each hand clasp fond and true

Carried with it this assurance
I know something good about you.
Wouldn't life be lots more happy
If the good that is in us all
Were the only thing about us
That folks bother to recall.
Wouldn't life be lots more happy
If we praised the good we see
For there's such a lot of goodness
In the worst of you and me.
Wouldn't it be nice to practice
That fine way of thinking too
You know something good about me
I know something good about you.

Ontario Foods

Why they should be the first ones to look for when you shop...
And how you can find them.

Ontario's farmers give us some of the finest quality food products and some of the best food values in the world.

That's why Ontario's Ministry of Agriculture and Food has developed this new Foodland Ontario symbol to help you find them.

It will help you identify the superb Ontario-grown foods for sale at your store. Their value and quality alone are enough to make them 'best buys' on your shopping list. But there are other good reasons why you should look for this symbol.

Ontario's farmers and their families make up only 5% of Ontario's population. Yet our farm neighbours produce some 200 food commodities worth $3 billion a year. Like the rest of us, our farmers look for a reasonable standard of living for their hard work and often risky investment. In return they offer their Ontario neighbours a wide variety of high quality farm products at fair prices.

We still import more food into Ontario than we export. Our trade balance would be much better if we consumed more of our own farm products. By doing so we could ensure a good livelihood for our producers. And we'd have increased activity and employment in our large food processing and retailing industries. We'd also assure the continued best use of our prime farmland.

The benefits are for all of us. We all have an investment in the continued good health of our agricultural economy. It's not just sentiment for our family farm heritage — it's plain common sense. We should protect and reinforce our investment in Ontario through our shopping choices. Buy the fine products of Foodland Ontario. Look for them wherever you see the Foodland Ontario symbol. Good Things Grow In Ontario.

Students can get loans for summer businesses

Students who want to run their own summer businesses to finance their education, will get extra help again this year from Venture Capital, an Experience '78 program sponsored jointly by Ontario business and the provincial government.

Venture Capital provides interest-free loans to a maximum of $1,000 to encourage students to set up their own summer businesses. The loans give enterprising individuals the opportunity to finance their education while acquiring business experience first hand.

The Ontario Ministry of

Colleges and Universities sponsors and administers this program in co-operation with the Ontario Chamber of Commerce and the Royal Bank. Now in its fifth successful year, it has progressed from 14 projects in 1973 to 71 projects in the summer of 1977.

Most of last year's ventures were profitable for their student operators. Projects ranged from sealing driveways to manufacturing and marketing soaps. Four astute businesswomen in Toronto designed and sold a line of summer fashions, reaping a profit of $7,700. One unique project involved raising steers on frozen blueberry waffles. The waste waffles were cheap and served as an excellent fattener.

In Windsor, two experienced student farmers produced a $6,500 crop of green peppers. Full-time summer employment was created for five people by two students in a Sault Ste. Marie venture. These two entrepreneurs turned a $1,000 loan into a profit of $3,300 by painting houses.

Students seeking to launch a Venture Capital project work closely with members of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce. Local participating chambers screen applications, suggest improvements and approve those which contain the fundamental ingredients of success. When the student's proposal is accepted, he or she must agree to follow certain standard business procedures, make regular reports and repay the loan within a specified period of time.

The Royal Bank provides financial advice and interest-free bridge loans to students who are eager to begin before government financing is available. Projects may begin as early as April 1. A financial liaison officer from the Royal Bank and the Ministry's Venture Capital program manager, visit projects during the summer to provide students with assistance and guidance.

Application forms for Venture Capital are available now and may be obtained by contacting: Lori Mark, Program Manager, Venture Capital '78, Ministry of Colleges and Universities, 6th Floor, Mowat Block, Queen's Park, Toronto, Ontario M7A 1B9.

RIEL - In loving memory of Jackie, who passed away March 20, 1970.

As time unfolds another year Memories keep you ever near,
Silent thoughts of times together Hold memories that will last forever.

Sadly missed by Mom, Dad, brothers and families.

SIMS In loving memory of a dear dad Beverleigh, who passed away March 24, 1961.

Like falling leaves the days slip by
But precious memories never die.
He lives with us in memory still
Not just today but always will.

Sadly missed and always remembered by daughter Helen and son-in-law Ross.

SIMS In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Beverleigh who passed away March 24, 1961.

We often think of days gone by,
When we were all together
The family chain is broken now,
But memories live forever.

Always remembered by Shirley, Sandy and Terry.

SIMS - In loving memory of a dear husband, Bev, who passed away March 24, 1961.

You were a loving husband,
A pal so good and true
A better husband never lived
Your equals are but few.
It broke my heart to lose you
But you didn't go alone.
For part of me went with you,
The day God called you home.

Sadly missed and loved by wife Toots.

IN MEMORIAM

CULLY, Lloyd, In memory of a dear brother in law who passed away March 17, 1975.

As long as life and memory last we will remember you.

Sadly missed by Pauline, Florence, Lloyd and Mary.

In fond and loving memory of my Mother, Mrs. Minnie McKnight Nesbitt, who God called home March 17, 1968.

To your resting place we visit
Recalling the memories we share,
But no one knows the heartache
When we turn to leave you there.
May the winds of Heaven blow gently.
On the quiet and peaceful spot,
Where the one we love lies sleeping
And will never be forgot.

The world may change from year to year,
And friends from day to day,
But never will the one we loved,
From memory fade away.

Lord, please tell Mother I'll be there.

Sadly missed and always remembered, daughter, Blanche.

MINAKER, George - In loving memory of a dear husband and father who passed away April 2, 1977.

God saw you getting tired
When a cure was not to be
So he closed his arms around you
And whispered come to me
You did not deserve what you went through
So he gave you rest
God's garden must be beautiful
He only takes the best

Sadly missed, Eileen, Gary, Glen and Laura.

Mr. & Mrs. A. Taylor visited with Mrs. Jean Taylor recently.

The trouble with people who talk too fast is that they often say something they have not thought of yet.

Carley Yakely and Shane of Oshawa visited with the Albert Yakelys and Gordon Paisleys over the weekend.

Recipe for the week - if you are having Turkey for Easter here is a savory bread dressing - 1 cup of butter or margarine; 3/4 cup minced onion; 18 cups day old bread crumbs; 1/4 cup chopped celery; 1/2 cup snipped parsley; 1 1/2 tspn. salt; 1/4 tspn. pepper; 1/2 tspn. monosodium glutamate (flavor). The next Test Day for Seniors will be held in the Dysart Arena on Sunday, April 9. The club hopes to have more Seniors come through with successful results on that day. Also joining in will be skaters from Minden, Bancroft and Bobcaygeon.

To finish off the season this year, a "Family Skate" will be held, complete with Pot Luck Supper on Wednesday, March 29. Moms and Dads will be encouraged to bring along their skates.

The club is very thankful for the co-operation and support it received from the Recreation Council, the Arena Staff and Minor Hockey who have from time to time made changes in their schedules to help the figure skaters with ice time. Meeting parents and skaters from other Clubs in the area has been enjoyable club organizers say and the Haliburton Club has had a good relationship with other clubs and with their executives.

All this has helped to make this a successful season in many ways as well as a great learning year.

I haven't mentioned Hockey yet but will now. The Bantams lost at Creemore last week, and the next game will be here on Saturday evening March 25. Time on signs. The Juveniles lost their game against Havelock last Saturday and had bad luck on the way home when some person at MacDonalds in Peterboro smashed several windows in the bus. They play again Monday evening then back to Havelock on Saturday evening. Was hoping they could finish it off here Monday, as the fans in Havelock beat anything we ever saw.

When things don't go just as you'd like, you can begin to grouse, or fret or sulk, or cause a gloom to settle on the house. But what's the use, it does no good, it helps nobody through, and if somebody's hurt at all, that somebody is you. How happy all the folk will be if your depression they can't see.

Mrs. Alan Brydson and family spent a few days of the March break with the W. Moores. The Brydsons are from Bracebridge.
